SUPREME COURT REJECTS GUFFEY LAW

DR. K. D. SMITH IN NEW STATE HEALTH BUREAU

Marion Physician Assigned to Study of Occupational Diseases.

TO CENTER ON SILICOSIS

Seek Preventive Methods; Marion Man To Be Assistant Chief of Project.

Dr. Kenneth D. Smith, former county coroner and former city health commissioner, is one of five Ohioans appointed to take charge of a new bureau the state department of health is establishing to prevent occupational disease and study industrial hygiene throughout the state. The new bureau was formed under provisions of the federal social security rpogram.

Announcement of the appointment and of establishment of the new bureau was made in Columbus today by Dr. Walter H. Hartung, state health director.

Dr. Smith is understood to hold the second ranking position in the new bureau. His title will be as assistant physician, second to Dr. W. Eugene Masters of Columbus, who was named medical supervisor. Dr. Smith's salary will be [illegible] a year.

Dr. Smith, who has been engaged in general practice of medicine in Marion six years, closed his office yesterday and left with the other appointees of the bureau for several weeks of intensive research into the phases of occupational diseases and industrial hygiene the new bureau will study.

Go To Washington

The appointees left Columbus last night to spend several weeks of study in Washington, D. C., where federal impetus has been given to the consideration of occupational diseases by the federal government. Recent legislative studies in Washington have emphasized the heavy toll occupational diseases, particularly silicosis, take annually and the federal government is cooperating with the states in a nationwide study to prevent these diseases and eliminate the causes, Dr. Hartung said in a telephone conversation with The Star today.

The two physicians, two chemical engineers and a laboratory man complete the present personnel of the new bureau.

Factories will be visited, the effect of different hygiene conditions on workers will be studied, causes of occupational diseases will be traced and an extensive educational program will be launched to eliminate causes, Dr. Hartung said. In the past, he said, only one man has been available in the state department for that kind of work.

Experienced in Work

Dr. Hartung said Dr. Smith was selected because of his previous public health work and his studies of the type of diseases with which the bureau will deal. Dr. Smith was engaged in chest study work at the Franklin county tuberculosis hospital at Columbus a year before coming to Marion.

He served as county coroner in [illegible] and 1932, became city health commissioner in 1933 and held that position until recent consolidation of that position with that of pathologist at the City hospital. He also served as city physician for [illegible] months starting in March of [illegible].

Dr. Smith, before leaving Marion yesterday, said his family will remain at their present residence at [illegible] Elmwood drive until the work of the bureau gets under way. Later the family will move to Columbus.

Study Program Outlined

Dr. Hartung said the intensive study the new appointees will begin in Washington will be followed by a short course at Harvard university and further research at an institute at Hartford, Conn. The study course will be completed in New York City several weeks from now and the new bureau will go into operation immediately afterward.

The phase of health work in which Dr. Smith will be engaged has been brought to the attention of Marion residents in the last several years by annual safety drives sponsored by local organizations in connection with the state division of safety and hygiene and by filing of several law suits in which Marion residents formerly employed in factories are seeking damages for alleged loss of their health due to silicosis, a lung ailment caused by inhaling of particles of dust, sand and other matter thrown into the air in some types of factory work.

ADDIS ABABA, May 17 — (By Military Plane to Asmara, Eritrea, May 18)—Murderers caught in the act of killing and looting, plunderers found prowling around and bandits who refused to give up arms in accordance with a proclamation of martial law have been executed after trials in the last few days as Italian authorities seek to calm swiftly the situation in this former Ethiopian capital.

After waiting a week for the scene to quiet itself, but with sporadic outbursts still prevalent, the authorities are following military law to the letter with fantastic scenes resulting.

Several journalists have left Addis Ababa already under compulsion, taking the train to Djibouti, French Somaliland, and more will follow.

As a result of the decisions of military tribunals, rifles and machine guns of carabinieri are banging out sometimes at dusk, carrying out sentence of death for the marauders who burned and pillaged Addis Ababa in four days of rioting, resulting in more than 800 native deaths, before the Italian arrived May 5.

Four newspapermen and three other persons, declared guilty of anti-Italian activities and espionage, have been expelled from Ethiopia.

The newspapermen expelled are George Steer, correspondent for the London and New York Times, Isadore Nebenzahl, a representative of the Havas (French) News Agency, Alkeos Angelopoulos, a Hearst correspondent, and M. D. Robillard, director of an Ethiopian newspaper.

FRANK BROTHERS ON TRIAL IN COLUMBUS

Former Marion Man Before Jury of Seven Women and Five Men.

Trial of Frank Brothers, former Marion man who is under an indictment charging embezzlement of $13,785 of funds of the state division of conservation, began in Columbus today, The Associated Press reported.

A jury of seven women and five men was selected this morning and testimony was expected to be started this afternoon.

Brothers, formerly engaged in railroad work here, was discharged from the conservation department a year ago and charges were filed against him on the basis of an audit of his accounts as chief accountant of the department.

"The evidence will show that not one penny of the funds of the state of Ohio was ever used by the defendant in any way for himself. All money was used for the benefit of the state and was not converted to his own use," defense counsel said in opening arguments, The Associated Press reported.

Prosecutor Donald J. Hoskins declared that this money had been derived by Brothers from hunting and fishing licenses and as fines for violations of the state game laws.

"None of it ever saw the state treasury where it was supposed to be deposited," he said.

SEVEN HOUSES DAMAGED BY HENRY ST. FIRE

14 FIREMEN BATTLE BLAZE

Investigation Started by Department To Learn Cause; Loss Set at $2,280.

Seven fires, six of them spreading from the first, virtually destroyed one Henry street residence in the southwest quarter of the city Saturday afternoon and damaged six other houses, causing total loss estimated at $2,280.

Fire Chief T. J. McFarland said quick spread of the fires principally from embers falling on shingle roofs represented a serious residential conflagration threat. Only the absence of strong wind kept spread of the fires from reaching serious proportions, he said.

The first fire broke out at 3:29 p. m. in an abandoned house at 533 Henry street. Shortly afterward the flames spread to occupied dwellings on each side, and flying sparks from these ignited other shingle roofs within an area of one block.

Fourteen firemen used two pumpers and the hook and ladder wagon fighting the fires. Most of the seven were extinguished before serious damage had been done. Seventeen hundred feet of hose was laid in three lines, but only two of these were used because firemen found it possible to check several of the fires with buckets of water carried to house roofs. The West Side fire department, the first to answer the call, spent one hour and 50 minutes fighting the flames and were helped part of that time by firemen from the Central station.

Large Crowd Assembles

A crowd of 500 persons saw the fires and helped firemen locate small roof fires that developed rapidly in the neighborhood.

Flames from the abandoned house, which was virtually destroyed, carried embers into the air by the strength of the draft created by the heat. These settled on nearby roofs. Had there been a strong wind, the embers probably would have started roof fires over a wide area, Chief McFarland said.

Chief McFarland this morning began an investigation to determine the cause of the fire in the abandoned dwelling.

Firemen from the Central Station, called on a second alarm, were delayed four minutes on their way to the fires by Pennsylvania and C. & O. trains, Chief McFarland said.

The vacant residence in which the fire started was condemned two years ago by the state fire marshal, but no action to repair or remove it had been taken because it is involved in court settlement of an estate at Mt. Gilead, Chief McFarland said. The building had holes in the roof, damaged plastering and many of the windows were out, the openings creating a natural draft for the fire that apparently started on the first floor.

Although the lower part of the house is standing, firemen said the building was wrecked and probably will have to be cleared away. Damage to it was estimated at $1,200. It is owned by the W. J. Berry state at Mt. Gilead.

Damage estimated at $1,000 was caused at the residence of Mrs. Mary K. Scranton at 527 Henry street, immediately north of the empty house. Siding on the south

SLUMP BRINGS SUCCESS TO THOSE WHO STUDIED

Seniors Leaving College Now Find Jobs Plentiful and Better Positions Awaiting Them.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 18—High school seniors of four years ago who went on to college because they couldn't find a job, found today through a state-wide survey that the depression had done them a favor.

In June they will be graduated from college with the training and equipment to handle better jobs, and they will find plenty of jobs awaiting them.

Of 14 Ohio colleges queried, a dozen said prospects were better than in several years, and only two replied that placements appeared "slower."

A few years ago Ohio State university faculty members were hunting jobs—any kind—for their graduates. Now the problem has changed to one of selection—of placing the right man in the right position. The shortage now is in trained men, rather than in jobs, the university reported. On file at the university are numerous requests for trained men which cannot be filled.

Prof. Donald S. Parks, head of the personnel office at Toledo university, said that of the 160 due to graduate only 10 registered have not been placed. He said about 50 per cent more jobs are available than last year, and cited an acute shortage of men for the sales distribution, pharmacy and engineering fields.

Cincinnati university will graduate more than 200 from its engineering classes, but Assistant Dean George Burns said: "Seniors in all of our engineering departments are in demand, with requests for the services of mechanical, civil and chemical engineers exceeding our supply."

Fifty of the University of Dayton's 79 graduates have jobs lined up, while last year only 40 of 83 were placed, although 85 per cent of the 1935 graduates are now employed.

Case reported 50 of its 153 seniors have jobs, with 20 more "hanging fire." Numerous requests for men with sales engineering training for the selling of technical products have been received. Western Reserve said the "prospects are encouraging, but it is too early to tell." Adelbert college, Flora Stone Mather college, and Cleveland college, all Western Reserve branches, reported the demand for job-filling talent was up, especially in the teaching and sales branches.

William E. Chancellor, professor of economics at Xavier university, said the situation was much improved over last year and the year

STOCKS SLIDE BACK AFTER BRIEF SPURT

$1 to $4 Rally on Heels of Guffey Decision Followed by Equivalent Setback.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 18—The long-awaited supreme court decision in the Guffey coal case gave the stock market a brief and potent stimulant today but the rally was short lived and prices slid back to close irregularly lower after advancing $1 to around $4 a share.

Prior to the decision, the market was lazy and prices backed and filled indifferently, but when financial news tickers flashed that the new deal had suffered another loss at the hands of the nation's highest tribunal, traders rushed in and for a brief spell the tape was three to four minutes behind floor transactions.

Some Wall Street brokerage houses believed the decision a definitely bullish factor, to the extent that it indicated a further curb of governmental powers in regulating business. Most quarters, however, felt that it was too technical to give the market anything more than a temporary boost.

SAFE IN BUCYRUS RESTAURANT BLOWN

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, O., May 18—Cash totaling $270 and a number of checks were taken when the safe of the Songer restaurant on the north side of the public square was blown with explosives some time after 2 a. m. Sunday.

The work apparently was done by experts, according to the police, who were unable to find any fingerprints or clues other than the piece of wire used to set off the explosive.

Several coats left hanging in the restaurant were used to muffle the sound of the explosion and were blown to pieces. Entrance to the building was made by prying open a back window.

TWO NEW DEAL LAWS LOSE OUT IN COURT TEST

WPA and RA Labeled Void Due to Improper Delegation of Power to President.

MENTION STATE'S RIGHTS

Hopkins Agency Accused of Exercising Powers Barred by U. S. Constitution.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 18—The 1935 relief act was held unconstitutional today by the District of Columbia court of appeals.

Three of the five judges said the $4,880,000,000 law was void because of improper delegation of powers to the President, invasion of state's rights and a lack of definite authorizations.

The court said the law "attempts to reach and control matters over which the Constitution has given congress no powers."

RA Also Turned Down

The resettlement administration was also declared unconstitutional today by a majority of the same court.

In a test case which resulted from plans for a model community at Franklin, in Somerset county, N. J., the appellate court found there was no constitutional power "conferred upon the federal government to regulate 'housing' or to 'resettle' population."

Rexford G. Tugwell, in charge of the resettlement administration, deferred comment pending study of the opinion. It was written by Associate Justice Van Orsdel and concurred in by Chief Justice Martin and Associate Justice Robb.

No Authority

The other two members, Justices Groner and Stephens, agreed that constitutional authority was lacking in this case, but said the court should not have passed upon validity of the entire program.

The appellate court reversed the ruling of the District of Columbia supreme court, which had upheld the validity of the resettlement program and denied an injunction against the New Jersey project sought by a group of taxpayers.

After reviewing provisions of the 1935 relief act which appropriated $4,880,000,000 and the executive orders of President Roosevelt which set up the resettlement agency, Justice Van Orsdel said:

"This is delegation running riot."

Woman Names Former Sen. C. C. Dill in Alienation Suit.

By The Associated Press

MT. VERNON, O., May 18—A $25,000 alienation of affections suit, brought by Mrs. Margie Heaton Dill against former U. S. Sen. Clarence C. Dill of Spokane, Wash., and Washington, D. C., was scheduled for hearing before Common Pleas Judge Philip L. Wilkins today.

Named as co-defendant in the suit was Mrs. Grace Dill of nearby Fredericktown, mother-in-law of the plaintiff and sister-in-law of the former senator.

The plaintiff charged in her petition that the defendants attempted to break her family ties with Wendell Dill, whom she married in May, 1934, the day after they were graduated from Fredericktown High school. She charged that the defendants arranged to have an illegal operation performed on her in Washington, D. C.

The former senator denied the charge in an answer to the suit. The mother-in-law, also denying the charge, said in her answer that she did not believe her son's wife underwent such an operation.

The former senator also said in his answer that the suit was "an attempt to extort money" from him. Wendell Dill has been working in Washington where the former senator is in business.

OHIO WPA SET TO KEEP GOING

Projects for After July 1 Deadline Prepared While Solons Get Ready To Meet.

DIRECT RELIEF NEEDED

Assembly Meeting Wednesday May Be Limited to State's Aid Problem.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 18—Works progress administration officials went ahead today with plans to continue their program after July 1, original date set for its termination, while a task of raising between $8,000,000 and $10,000,000 for direct relief lay in the vacant chambers of the Ohio legislature.

The legislature, returning from a six-week recess Wednesday, probably will consider nothing but the relief problem created, state relief commission officials said, by failure of the last $11,500,000 emergency relief measure to function properly, coupled with refusal of a number of counties to approve proposed utility excise bonds in last Tuesday's balloting. The last measure expires July 1.

Plan To Continue

A WPA spokesman said that while the WPA had received no definite word from Washington on possible continuance of the program, "every plan has been made to continue it and when congress approves the new appropriations bill with possible amendments to take care of the WPA."

Dr. Carl Watson, Ohio WPA chief, sent instructions several weeks ago to all district WPA supervisors to line up possible projects for execution and completion after July 1.

WPA employment last week was 167,000, thirty thousand workers under the March peak. The spokesman said it probably would drop to 145,000 by the middle of June and added that indications pointed to a large number of the workers cut off going into private employment.

Burden Drops Steadily

He said reports of case loads in the 10 most populous counties showed steady drops in the direct relief burden.

State relief commission officials, however, said that Lucas county was without any relief funds and in debt more than $900,000, with Cuyahoga, Ashtabula, Columbiana, Allen and Wood counties in similar difficulties.

Only $5,200,000 of the original $11,500,000 appropriation has been spent to date. Commission officials said only $2,000,000 more would be spent July 1, the end of the life of the law.

DRIVER ARRESTED AFTER ACCIDENT

R. J. Jackson, 49, of 131 Kenmore avenue, was arrested last night at 7:50 p. m. on a charge of driving while intoxicated, following an automobile accident at Center street and Seffner avenue. His car, according to a police report, struck a car driven by Ernest Bey of 399 Mary street, and owned by Christ Henning of 564 Cherry street. Both automobiles were traveling east and Jackson drove into the rear of the other car which slowed down to make a left turn, the police reported. Neither car was badly damaged.

COAL ACT HELD AN INVASION OF STATE'S RIGHTS

Regulation of Hours and Wages Banned in Mines Same as Other Industries.

DECISION SIX TO THREE

Justices Cardozo, Brandeis and Stone Dissent to Opinion Read by Sutherland.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 18—Dividing six to three, the supreme court struck down the Guffey coal act today on the same ground that it invalidated NRA—an unconstitutional invasion of state powers.

The majority, through Justice Sutherland, held the federal government was without power to regulate hours and wages in the mining industry as well as in the manufacturing industry.

Three Justices Dissent

The dissenters were Justices Brandeis, Stone and Cardozo.

The court did not rule on the constitutionality of the price fixing provision of the Guffey law to regulate the bituminous industry, but said these were so related to the labor provisions that the fall of the latter carried the price fixing section down too.

In failing to rule on the price fixing provisions, the majority opinion warned that nothing the court said was to be taken as an indication that it would uphold them even if they were enacted separately.

Chief Justice Hughes, in a separate opinion, concurred in the finding of the majority that congress had exceeded its authority in attempting to regulate wages and hours.

Label Tax a Penalty

The majority opinion held the excise tax of 15 per cent on soft coal production, with provisions for refunding 90 per cent for adherence to terms of the law was "clearly not a tax but a penalty," but the court did not rule on the tax.

The six to three decision was delivered by Justice Sutherland before a crowded audience which included Sen. Guffey, Democrat of Pennsylvania, co-author of the law with Rep. Snyder, Democrat of Pennsylvania.

Part Might Be Upheld

The separate opinion delivered by Chief Justice Hughes, contended the act might be sustained "in relation to the provisions for marketing in interstate commerce."

"The decisions of the courts below, so far as they accomplish that result, should be affirmed," he asserted.

The majority held that congress in the law had exceeded its power under the Constitution in attempting to regulate interstate commerce.

The decision holding NRA unconstitutional was cited as a precedent.

Constitutionality of the Guffey act to permit federal control of prices, wages and hours in the bituminous industry had been challenged by James Walter Carter, West Virginia and Virginia producer, and by 19 Kentucky operators.

Carter Case Upheld Before

In the Carter case, the District of Columbia supreme court upheld price fixing, but declared unconstitutional the provisions for regulating wages and hours.

The western Kentucky federal district court upheld the entire act.

"Working conditions are obviously local conditions," today's opinion reminded.

The majority also held that it was an improper delegation of power to permit a majority to dominate a minority so far as wages and hours in an industry are concerned.

Labeled Arbitrary

"The delegation," the opinion asserted, "is so clearly arbitrary, and so clearly a denial of rights safeguarded by the due process clause of the fifth amendment, that it is unnecessary to do more than

FIGHT MAY END IN MONEY LOSS

Morrow County Schools May Be Barred from State Funds in District Dispute

Special to The Star

MT GILEAD May 16—The possibility that all or a part of the Morrow county schools will have all state revenue cut off next year was brought up at the public hearing held at the courthouse Saturday on redistricting of Morrow county as required under the school foundation law

The county board prepared plans for a complete redistricting several weeks ago but before the hearing was held adopted by a vote of three to two the same districting arrangement now in effect. They abandoned plans to reduce the number of districts from 15 to eight and also abandoned any contemplated changes in territory

Boards Enter Protests

When the hearing was held Saturday morning members of several local boards of education and attorneys representing other boards appeared to protest any changes in the present set up only to be informed by Harry Lepp president of the county board that the board will submit the present map to the state department of education for approval

No protests were made on the present map although D R Stanfield superintendent of the Edison schools stated that he believed the county board should thoroughly investigate the possibility of the state department withdrawing funds because of failure to approve schools

Stanfield stated that he had been informed although not officially that there was a distinct possibility that the state department of education might accept the present map as sent in for approval but that such action would not necessarily mean that the state department would approve the schools of the county and that the department might withhold funds from school districts not approved

60 Per Cent Loss

Such an action would mean the loss of 60 per cent of the total revenue of the Morrow county schools and would make it impossible to keep them open. Where 10 years ago the greater part of the school funds were raised from local sources the school foundation law provides that the state shall furnish approximately 60 per cent now

Two members of the county board were cited and [illegible] the map [illegible] the [illegible] of the members [illegible] McNeal said that the changes in the school set up in Morrow county will have to be made eventually to conform to the state [illegible] effect and [illegible] better be made now than [illegible] wait until next year

Opposition to any change is [illegible] in some districts and the opposition is not lessened by the possibility of [illegible]

Want Definite Data

The county board was asked to definitely ascertain before the public hearing as to whether the procedure followed will result in loss of state revenue. They failed to get any statement from the state department, one superintendent said

Written statements of the policies opinions and wishes of the various local boards of education were submitted in writing to the county board previous to the hearing but these statements were necessarily general since the boards had no definite knowledge of the plans of the county board until the public hearing was held

The map of reorganization exactly as the present districts are now constituted will be sent to the state department by the county board for approval as required by the Traxler Kiefer law

Officials of the state department said Friday when conferring with a number of Morrow county school men that the state department will change the districts if sufficient protests are made before time for them to take final action

Dr Smith preached on the subject Horses Without Riders from Second Kings 18 23 "Now therefore I pray thee give pledges to my Lord the King of Assyria and I will deliver thee 2000 horses if thou be able on thy part to set riders on them

It is one thing to have power and another to know how to use it he said in discussing the text which was uttered at the time Assyria and Egypt were each bidding for the allegiance of Judea

We have a great civilization but are we able to set riders upon the horses? he asked. In touching on modern economics he declared that it not God's depression this is ours

We have a great horse in the airplane but we have no rider to use the horse solely for the benefit of mankind and the world is spending millions to determine how best to use the airplane to kill the most people in the next war

We have the great radio systems but no rider. Give me control of the four greatest radio systems for three years and I will control the thinking of the people

Our newspapers in many nations are horses without riders. Thank God in this country we can print about what we please so long as it is decent and respectable. I was in Italy and Russia some time ago and I saw some of their newspapers that had white spaces which meant that some officials of the government had jerked out some of the things the government did not like"

Many American parents have placed the responsibility upon the public schools to train their children and in many cases they are not being trained as they should be. We should never permit the government to dictate what should be taught in our schools. The government of Russia is doing this and no one can teach in Russia who believes in God. Churches should speak out and speak as one man against gambling immorality and intemperance

The people of India are doing their best to pattern after the western civilization Bishop Chitamber said. He discussed the three political parties in India the strongest of which is the Agriculturists constituting about 90 per cent of the population and the three casts upper lower and untouchables

Many of the most enlightened people are working for social reform which will include the abrogation of the law denying widows the right to marry and the abolition of child marriage. Quoting statistics about his native land the bishop said that 10 per cent of the people can now read and write in many instances only their own name and that only two per cent of the women can read and write

The opposition to the traffic in intoxicating liquors was gaining by leaps and bounds according to the bishop when the repeal of prohibition in the United States gave the movement a setback. The women of the country are now coming out of seclusion and demanding equal rights with the men and the bishop asked when women get started who can stop them

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON May 18—The treasury estimated today that the latest compromise tax plan of the senate finance committee would produce $642 000 000 of which $173 000 000 would come from individual income taxpayers

Indicative however of the fact that the committee still is groping for an agreement on how to rewrite the tax bill as it passed the house were requests for additional estimates on other ways of raising the $623 000 000 of permanent revenue sought by the President

Chairman Harrison Democrat of Mississippi named three subcommittees to report Wednesday morning on the windfall tax feature of the measure on a provision for refunds on flood stocks on hand at the time of invalidation of the AAA and on the question of insurance that might be applied to pay the government's taxes

The committee planned no further sessions until Wednesday

CAR CRASHES INTO WINDOW OF STORE

Dashes Across Street After Police Remove Driver from Seat.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, O., May 18—A car, left in gear by the driver when he was jerked from the seat by police, who were extremely annoyed with his hazardous driving, careened across the street here Saturday afternoon, bumped over a curb and shattered a large plate glass window of the J. C. Penney Co. store, one block south of the square.

The man who had been driving the car, Clarence F. Kindred, 28, of Bellevue, was to be arraigned this morning before Mayor George Birk, probably charged with driving while intoxicated.

Pedestrians scattered to the four corners of the intersection when the car, its front wheels turned to the right, started up and made a wild run across the street. Kindred's wife and five-year-old son, who were in the car, were uninjured by the falling glass.

Kindred, according to police, had been endangering life and property with his manner of driving, and force was needed to get him out of the car.

WALDO CAR RECOVERED

A car belonging to F. R. Redd of Waldo reported stolen Saturday at 11:30 p. m. from its parking place in the uptown section on West Center street, was found on Leader street, early Sunday by police.

Fisherman Lands 20-Pound, 1-Eyed Carp Near Waldo

He didn't go to Lake Erie, nor did he go to the reservoir for any fancy Sunday fishing, but with a bamboo pole and a soft-shelled crab for bait Edward A. Dutt, foreman in the Marion Steam Shovel Co. machine shop, caught a one-eyed 20-pound carp yesterday afternoon in the Whetstone river, northeast of Waldo.

Mr. Dutt doesn't consider the catch unusual—for years he's been fishing in the Whetstone and several years ago he came in with three carp, weighing 25, 16 and 17 pounds apiece. Several years ago he brought a carp out of the Whetstone that weighed nearly 25 pounds.

But Mr. and Mrs. Paul Weber of 983 Sheridan road, and several other Marion residents who were witnesses of the catch, are telling fish stories today—they'd never seen anything like it.

Mr. Dutt, his wife and six children moved from Hane avenue to their present home two and one-half miles northeast of Waldo on the Hipsher road a year ago last April, motivated principally, Mr. Dutt's friends believe, by the fact that the entire 37 acres border on the Whetstone give him a "backyard" fishing paradise.

Fishing and hunting are Mr. Dutt's chief recreations. He takes his fishing casually, though, and it was Mrs. Weber and Mrs. Dutt who were watching the pole yesterday and saw the 20-pound carp thrashing the water.

Mr. and Mrs. Dutt have six children, and the entire family, with the exception of the oldest daughter, Helen, goes fishing. Their prize catch to date is a catfish caught by Harry, aged 15. The fish weighed nearly three pounds and is believed to be the largest "cat" ever caught in the river.

Michel said Haflick has agreed to pay $5 a week to the grandparents of the children. The trial has been continued indefinitely.

MONDAY, - - - - MAY 18, 1936

Ready for the Show.

A glance at the calendar confirms the fact that the first big act of the 1936 political circus, the Republican convention, is only a little more than three weeks away. While all the spectators and performers have been anticipating the event, time has been running on relentlessly. They've not much longer to wait.

Soon it will be known whether Sen. Borah and Gov. Smith will stay hitched or take a walk. Before long it will be spread on the record whether a majority of Ohio's unbound delegates are bound to Gov. Landon, Col. Knox, Sen. Vandenberg or Joe Whoozis.

In only a few more days suspense will be broken. There will be platforms, and candidates standing on them, all in harmony and order. It even will be disclosed that the vice presidential candidate of the Democratic party is going to be John N. Garner. As a special treat, there will be the new deal's pronouncement on the reduction of expenditures.

All these things are obvious. But then, so are the events of a circus. Ther always are elephants, trained horses, clowns and tight rope walkers. Unfailingly there are brass bands, merry-go-rounds and cotton candy. It's always the same, but never monotonous.

Anticipation never fails to be better than realization, furthermore. While waiting for the final big act that will leave everybody breathless, the onlooker loses his sense of time. Before he knows it the circus is over for another year—or for four more years.

That has been the way with events so far in 1936. With all eyes focused on the future the present is being lived almost too rapidly. The first of the two conventions is so close now that further speculation is almost useless. It seems better to wait and see. There isn't much time left.

Resistance.

America's trouble with airships, it seems safe to say, is more psychopathic than aeronautical. It doesn't know that there is any reason why it can't succeed, but it lacks confidence in itself.

Consequently, when Germany's fine new ship, the Hindenburg, reached this country a week ago, many Americans experienced a surge of confidence. If Germany could do it, America could too, they thought—not a new reaction, by any means.

So it isn't surprising to hear that by order of the house naval affairs committee the old dirigible Los Angeles is going to be put into flying condition again. Two years ago the ship was dismantled because it was too old. The government and the country, too, had no hope then.

The decision to make the Los Angeles ready for the air again is a clear example of the mental state caused by the accidents which happened to the Akron and Macon. Americans want to experiment with airships, and they don't want to experiment. They want to call it quits, but they don't want to surrender.

Not knowing what to do, they are going to try to satisfy themselves by flying the Los Angeles, German-built and ancient, but still the only thing they have. It's beginning to look as though they would have to put an extra cot in the psychopathic ward for Uncle Sam. His resistance is low.

Storms at Sea.

Waves of labor unrest which have been washing for many months past at the American merchant marine service have mounted to storm proportions. On the complaint of strikers, who swore they had affidavits to substantiate their assertions, sailing of the President Roosevelt was delayed an hour and a half the other day while government inspectors questioned the crew closely to ascertain whether, as strikers contended, the ship was being manned by incompetent seamen.

Government men, under Joseph B. Weaver, director of the U. S. bureau of navigation and steamboat inspection, concluded the strikers' charges were unfounded and permitted the ship to sail.

In this instance it appears that strikers, resentful of "strike breakers" being used, may have drawn upon imagination in an effort to dramatize their grievances. At least they refused steadfastly to hand over their affidavits to government officials.

The inquiry should not stop with the sailing of the President Roosevelt. Increasingly, rumors circulated about incompetently and insufficiently manned ships, deplorable working conditions and low pay have taken on ugly colors. The charges should be aired. If abuses exist, steps should be taken to remedy them. In the meantime, it is certain the storms which constantly are breaking out along American water fronts are causing many persons to question the safety of the marine service.

It is to be hoped the promised additional inquiry into this latest case will be carried forward vigorously and that it will lead to thorough investigation of the whole troublous situation.

Local Housecleaning.

Imprisoning gangsters and murderers for income tax violation is something like mother's asking dad to take Johnnie to the woodshed — because she knows he is going to be bad soon or has been bad before, and because she doesn't like the job herself. Such was the implication of Joseph B Keenan, assistant to the United States attorney general, when he spoke in Cleveland Thursday night and denounced the income tax conviction of Al Capone as a "usurpation of power."

Mr. Keenan conceded the effectiveness of the centralized federal law enforcement agencies and declared that in cases within their jurisdiction federal agents rightfully enjoyed the benefits of not being bound by state lines. But, he insisted, "you are not making progress if you substitute the federal law to soften the community."

Doubtless local communities and states must take more than half the blame for federal encroachment upon their law enforcement pastures. Evidence exists to show that local communities often have capable and intelligent police officials and agents, but that their efforts are nullified by political manipulation.

If states don't wake up and clean their own houses, federal agents naturally are going to bring in more and more brooms. Praise has been showered so liberally on the G-men, for instance, it hardly would be surprising to find them believing in their own perfection and right to clean up local sore spots.

If states and local communities want to stop the federal invasion, if they want to convict criminals for the serious crimes they have committed, they must jump into action. Since consideration of crime headed its agenda, perhaps the Interstate Co-operative council which met recently in Chicago wil find a way.

Fast Company.

One fact stands out clearly in the current ruckus over bridge as a possible medium for gamblers. It is that bridge players, good and bad, believe they are playing a game of skill.

The trouble is that some players become so skillful they enjoy a distinct advantage. The same situation exists in all games. It has been dealt with elsewhere by dividing players into professional and amateur groups.

Occasionally, an amateur may be of professional caliber. Sometimes, a professional may be of amateur caliber. Nevertheless, by separating the sheep from the goats in a general way much strife and bitterness are averted. The simon pures have a chance, at least, to stay out of fast parlor pastime, has been growing up rapidly. There are players who work at it; they are professionals. Others who merely play at it retain an amateur status. It's barely possible that before the issue is settled, the nation's bridge players may be partitioned into leagues. It seems no more than fair that Joe Doakes and Mrs. Doakes should know when they sit down for an evening of skill whether they're playing in Class A, the majors, or just with a pair of sandlotters. It might make some difference in their doubling.

Bridge, which used to be a harmless company.

Glancing Backward

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Tuesday, May 18, 1926.

Two lumberjacks were burned to death in the Allegheny national forest fire which was raging beyond control in Elk and McKean counties, Pennsylvania.

A recent report that Marion's city parks might be closed for the summer because of no funds having been appropriated brought the announcement that city council at its next meeting was likely to remedy the situation by providing a special appropriation.

Frank Solomon, 72, farmer living on the Green Camp-Owens pike south of Marion, had a remarkable escape from death when he was struck by a bolt of lightning during a violent rain and thunderstorm which hit the county.

Coal shipments of almost unprecedented proportions were passing through Marion. Officials of the Pennsylvania and Hocking Valley railroads reported an average of one train of 75 to 100 cars on each line every hour.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Sonner of Delaware. Mrs. Sonner before her marriage was Miss Kathryn White of Thew avenue.

Fire starting from a bolt of lightning destroyed a large barn, granary and several hundred bushels of grain on the Marion Bumgardner farm near Richwood. Loss was estimated at $6,000.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Thursday, May 18, 1916.

Mexican customs guards shot and killed an American soldier who had crossed the line a short distance east of Juarez. The incident served to intensify the dangerous situation existing along the border and in the interior of Mexico as a result of the presence of American troops hunting for Villa.

Important gains were made by the French troops on the west side of the Meuse river during the night, General Nivelle's forces capturing two important stations in the German trenches. A London dispatch reported that the French steamship, Mira, had been sunk by a mine or a submarine.

Miss Helen Louise Krause of Marion and Ira L. Stalter of Harpster were united in marriage at the Trinity Baptist parsonage by Dr. T. H. McAfee.

City Clerk Howard A. Stevens announced that all houses in the city would be renumbered.

The alumni of Green Camp High school gave its annual program in the town hall. The welcome to the class of 1916 was given by C. C. Ritzler and response in behalf of the class was made by Miss Esther Ziaz.

Plenty of Politics Found in Relief

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright, 1936, by The Marion Star

WASHINGTON, May 18—Politics in relief has become such a common-place charge hereabouts that Republicans assert it repeatedly, but Democrats scoff at it. Generalities have made little impression thus far. So it is interesting to note the widespread interest in congress which has been caused by the publication of a series of three articles by Mrs. Eugene Meyer, wife of the publisher of the Washington Post, who for 15 years has been chairman of the Westchester County Recreation commission.

Mrs. Meyer made a personal investigation of the relationship of politics and relief in Westchester county, which, for the benefit of those who do not live in the vicinity of New York, it should be remarked, is the county where New York City ends on the north and continues northward and westward and embraces a large population, including many who com*mute to New York City daily*.

Members of congress have been confront*ed with such statements as these in Mrs. Meyer's* articles:

"It is alarming to see congress supinely voting the President another billion and a half for the continuance of the most ruthless political machine that has ever existed in our country.

"We have witnessed extreme political corruption before, but it was confined to a municipality, a government department, or even a state. Never before have we had a national organization reaching out into the highways and byways and debauching the people as a whole. I shall endeavor to prove in these articles that the prime object of some of the WPA officials in Westchester county, N. Y., if not in other communities, is to buy allegiance to the national administration, to intimidate as far as possible those whose vote cannot be bought, and only lastly, to spend on relief cases such sums as are left when the previous objectives have been obtained."

Mrs. Meyer then proceeds to give details, incidents and facts concerning the handling of WPA in Westchester county and charges that John Buckley Bryan, regional director of WPA for the county, has made the following statement to one of her friends on three separate occasions:

"Franklin D. Roosevelt is the man who gave us this money and I would be the dirtiest kind of a dog-traitor if I didn't see to it that people who are 100 per cent for him receive first consideration."

Now the usual course when charges of this kind are made is for an official inquiry to be instituted. Data are sought as a rule by congressional committees by inviting witnesses to appear and tell their story. All efforts to have the WPA investigated have been squelched by the Democrats in congress at the behest of the administration. Just why the WPA should fight against an investigation of a matter as important as the disbursement of public funds is difficult to understand except that the presence of a big Democratic majority just makes it easy to ignore attacks because the votes to defeat resolutions of inquiry are available.

So instead of a congressional inquiry, the public will have to get its facts and revelations in another way. That's why Mrs. Meyer's articles are an important contribution to the cause of better publicity of what's going on in the use of public funds this campaign year. Doubtless her example will be followed by public-spirited citizens in the other counties of the United States where political corruption prevails so that the citizens may get at the truth.

The point of view of the new deal is not very much different from that which is reported to have been expressed by the WPA director in Westchester county. The theory is that it is Mr. Roosevelt's own fund that is being disbursed and that acknowledgements of a political character are due him. Thus Postmaster General Farley, who is chairman of the Democratic state committee of New York state, and who is touring the country in the interest of the political fortunes of the Democratic party, said in an address delivered in the last 48 hours to the Democratic state convention of Vermont:

"The people of Vermont can think for themselves and they know that the funds sent here by the federal government dur*ing the depression* turned the economic tide. It has been conservatively estimated that more than $62,000,000 has been allotted, loaned, expended or disbursed in the Green Mountain section since March, 1933."

When a member of the President's cabinet and the chief of the Democratic national organization uses language as plain as that to a Democratic state convention it is not surprising that federal employes will accept it as the gospel of the new deal. Time was when the Republicans used to boast of what they did in the way of special favors for the people. But that was the old deal and somehow many people have been persuaded to believe that what the Republicans did by way of political sin would never be repeated or imitated by the virtuous exponents of the new idealism. But whether such an assumption is right or wrong, the congress isn't ready to allow the white light of investigating committees to direct public attention to the facts. Hence the alternative is to record the charges and let the people judge by their own observations whether the $4,000,000,000 fund is being properly or improperly disbursed.

Behind the News

Men and Affairs Under The Washington Spotlight.

BY PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, May 18 — The best possible insight into President Roosevelt's way of doing business was furnished by his relief announcement.

While Prof. Tugwell was howling to congress that he would go out of business July 1 unless he got more money; while Mr. Ickes was still planting data with congressmen to promote the earmarking of relief money for his PWA; while Mr. Hopkins was undermining both of them and running off with the relief swag:

Mr. Roosevelt flicked the ash from his cigaret and announced there was nothing in all this talk about Messrs. Hopkins, Ickes and Tugwell and their scramble for the relief doughbag. Nothing new in the situation at all. It was very simple. Tugwell is going to carry on just as he has been, with money from Hopkins. Ickes is going to continue his PWA with money from the RFC revolving fund.

Detection

You could tell from the President's patient tone of voice that it pained him inwardly to have to point out old stuff like this.

Reporters dashed from the room, sent off bulletins announcing in effect that Mr. Roosevelt's reformation of the new deal from within had been completed. Ickes and Tugwell were having their wings clipped. Hopkins was going to handle the swag.

Newsmen can detect the real news behind a painted tone when they hear it.

Residue

What every one knew was that Prof. Tugwell is not going to be able to resettle the world on what he gets from Mr. Hopkins. Nor is Mr. Ickes going to be able to announce that PWA has furnished trillions of man-minutes of labor on the refunds he receives from the RFC revolving fund.

Both boys are through as world remakers, for the duration of the campaign at least. Their jobs will be sideline "samples." They will not handle the real goods.

But they will handle enough to keep themselves and their friends comfortably quiet. Exactly how much money they will get, nobody knows. They have an indeterminable amount of unexpended balances. Mr. Ickes would build municipal sewers and things like that, but no more Boulder dams. Mr. Hopkins will be able to play around with things he has started, but will start no new things.

In other words, an existing condition was accepted as a practical political compromise.

Relative Success

The secret of Mr. Hopkins' favor with Mr. Roosevelt is that he has done everything he was told to do. He has made as many mistakes as the other officials. Criticism has constantly thundered about his head. But when he was told to spend a certain amount of money, he did it. When he was told to put a certain number of men to work, he was able to produce figures indicating that he did it.

No other new deal lieutenant has been able to show the boss a similar record.

Weather Note

Some of the inside personal tiffs within Mr. Roosevelt's unhappy official family are becoming slightly rough.

One official, for instance, has been devoting himself to digging up highly personal data concerning the business past of another official. He has gone to a couple of Republican congressmen in an effort to persuade them to shoulder the material publicly, but they have declined. Now, when Republican congressmen decline to touch material against any new deal official, it is a fairly good sign that there is something wrong with the material.

Smuggling Diplomacy

The movement of more Japanese troops into north Chinto is not considered as important as a less ob*vious movement thereabouts.*

The American and British trade markets in north China are being undermined by goods smuggled in from Japan's Manhcoukuo and the free port of Dairen. The purpose of the smuggling is to escape Chinese customs duties and thus undersell American and British goods which pay the customs duties.

The rate at which smuggling has lately been increasing leads authorities here to estimate that it may soon cost the Chinese government $50,000,000 a year in revenue. Thus it may pinch their ability to pay the interest on British and American loans as well as British and American trade with China.

It is a new kind of economic warfare and our diplomats do not seem to know what to do about it. China says she cannot stop it. Japan says it is up to China to enforce her customs regulations.

Caution

The new deal diplomats did not care to press the senate to ratify the naval treaty at this session unless ratificaation was certain. So they sent the treaty to the senate informally and it was quietly passed around by Chairman Pittman of the senate foreign relations committee. He invited senators to take a look and see what a good treaty it was, so that the President could decide whether the submit it officially.

O. O. McIntyre's Diary of Fact, Fancy and Folks.

NEW YORK, May 18—Diary: Up and a note from Monta Bell filming in India. And out walking a way with Ted Woodyard, exchanging jape and quiddity. Then by the Ritz Carlton to see John Ringling, of the circuses, and in the foyer I bespoke myself to a lady I did not know, thinking she was Ina Claire.

So to the Colony for a late breakfast with my lady and was holpen twice to eggs Florentine. Afterward shopping and to call on Estelle and Gelett Burgess but they were out, and we by tram to Lucy Virginia Long's at Greenwich, as restful a country estate as ever I lazed about.

An increasing number of stage and screen folk are nibbling ends of pens and gazing reflectively out windows in the tantalizing throes of literary creation. Peggy Wood recently enlarged her writing horizon with another full length novel of back stage doings. She has in the past written a novel, several short stories, essays and a preface to a modern edition of her father, Eugene Wood's "Back Home." Mary Pickford has turned out three volumes in a year. Joan Crawford is rumored flirting with a historical fantasy. And Cissie Loftus is planning her memoirs. So is Ethel Barrymore.

Broadway went for pixilation in a big way. It was soon being lyricized on the air and in cabarets. Gary Cooper brought it out of the moth balls in a recent film. It's an old New England expression derived from the English word pixie—meaning elves, and often resurrected in a whimsy by Alexander Woollcott. In a slang way out in Ohio pixilation meant a bit balmy. Silly Tom was pixilated and so was Ida Strump who chewed snuff, lived across the creek and came to town in her bare feet. All of us O-fillers, coin jinglers and button tuggers are pixied.

I talked to a kindly gentleman today who was in a state of utter dejection. In his morning mail he received a most unjust, sarcastic letter from one of his intimate friends—a friend since preparatory school days. It was filled with invective over a situation for which he was blamed and with which he had nothing to do. The recipient spent several hours thinking up a reply and then in a flash inspiration wrote across the envelope "Opened by Mistake," and returned it.

Milady's hat continues to dwindle. A collection of them raked from smartly coiffed heads at any Colony luncheon would scarcely suffice for a dozen pen wipers. Just a dab of felt or something and there you are! And removing bonnets at the theater is lost motion. Nobody minds the hats. Yet milliners say the new diminutive style is the most difficult of all to fashion. Mrs. Byron Foy, one of the town's better dressed matrons, is the most auspicious exponent of the tiny hat. A runner-up is Mrs. Orson Munn. A number of their models would just about cover the palms of their hands. No one seems to know exactly where the craze came from. Some say Paris and others it was the sly conceit of that pair of side-splitting harlequins who milliner to the haute monde along the select shopping district of Madison avenue — John-Frederics.

SOLDIERS, SOCIALISTS NOW RULING BOLIVIA

War Hero of Gran Chaco, Col. David Toro, Succeeds Civilian President.

By The Associated Press

LA PAZ, Bolivia, May 18—A provisional junta of soldiers and Socialists ruled Bolivia today after the civilian government of President Jose Luis Tejada Sorzano fell in a peaceful military coup.

The new council called war hero Col. David Toro back from the Gran Chaco to become president, gained suspension of a general strike movement and proclaimed as its objective to "orient the nation toward a Socialistic state by prudent, gradual means, without convulsions."

Advices from the interior indicated absolute tranquility prevailed throughout this South American state of almost 3,000,000 people.

The government overturn was the second to arise in the aftermath of the long Chaco war. Bolivia's soldiers seized power just three months after their former enemies in Paraguay ousted President Eusebio Ayala and installed Col. Rafael Franco as chief executive.

Col. German Busch, acting chief of the Bolivian army general staff, led the swift, successful La Paz coup d'etat.

So sudden and unexpected was the movement that President Tejada Sorzano worked at his desk until late Saturday night, left the palace without noticing the slightest indication of a plot and announced he would return to his office this morning.

Committee on Episcopacy Ready To Make Its Recommendations.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 18—The assignment of Bishops for the next four years was the principal item of business before the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church today as delegates prepared to end the meeting which opened 18 days ago.

The committee on Episcopacy was ready to recommend the assignment of bishops, including four new members of the board consecrated at services last night. Delegates, anxious to reach final adjournment by noon Tuesday, prepared to vote approval of the assignments.

The conference auditorium was filled last night by a capacity audience as the four bishops-elect, a missionary bishop, and a central conference bishop were consecrated.

The new bishops were Wilbur E. Hammaker, veteran Youngstown, O., pastor; Charles W. Flint, chancellor of Syracuse, N. Y., university; G. Bromley Oxnam, president of DePauw university; and Alexander P. Shaw, new bishop named to succeed Bishop Matthew W. Clair of Covington, Ky.

They, with Missionary Bishop John M. Springer, elected to serve in South Africa, and Central Conference Bishop Robert Elphick, named by South American Methodists several months ago, took their vows as general superintendents of the church.

ZEPPELIN WEATHERS BIG STORM OVER SEA

Takes Southern Course to U. S. After Encountering Mist Over Channel.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 18—The Zeppelin Hindenburg, weathering a heavy rainstorm steadily, sped far out over the North Atlantic today on its second flight from Germany to the United States.

At 7 a. m. (E. S. T.) the Hindenburg reported to the Radio Marine Corp. that her position was 43 degrees, 5 minutes north latitude and 37 degrees 43 minutes west longitude. This was approximately 1,560 miles east of New York.

The Hindenburg left Frankfort at 11:35 p. m., E. S. T., Saturday after the departure was delayed by adverse winds.

After crossing The Netherlands and England, the Zeppelin encountered a heavy mist over the English channel, together with slightly adverse winds, and took a route south of the great northern circle and steamship course, toward the Azores.

Struck by a heavy rainstorm from the northeast late yesterday, the great lighter-than-air craft caught about two tons of water. Although the wind roared at a 45-mile-an-hour pace, dispatches from the Zeppelin said it came through the storm easily.

If the Hindenburg equalled the time of 61 hours, 52 minutes, made on its first flight last week to Lakehurst, N. J., it would pass over New York around noon tomorrow.

GUFFEY LAW RULED OUT BY HIGH COURT

refer to decisions of this court which foreclose the question."

The NRA decision also was cited in this connection.

In another ruling the court denied commission men buying and selling livestock at the Chicago Union stockyards the right to collect rates higher than those authorized by Secretary Wallace.

The unanimous decision was delivered by Justice Roberts.

It was given in two cases involving the secretary's power under the 1921 packers and stockyards act.

Rates were reduced by Wallace in an order issuer Jan. 8, 1934. It was modified upward somewhat on March 12.

Upheld in Lower Court

Wallace was sustained by a three-judge federal district court and the dealers appealed to the supreme court.

Later, on Oct. 18, 1935, the commission men published a new set of higher rates to become effective Nov. 1, 1935. Wallace returned the schedule without calling a hearing to determine whether it was reasonable. The dealers contended it became effective and were upheld by the same three-judge federal court.

An interstate commerce commission order prescribing how joint rates on citrus fruit shipments from Florida to the east and mid-west should be divided among the railroads was upheld by the supreme court.

Opinion Unanimous

In an unanimous opinion delivered by Justice Butler, the tribunal affirmed a ruling by a three-judge federal district court in eastern Virginia, which sustained the 1934 order.

The Baltimore & Ohio and other northern carriers had contended the ICC order decreased their revenue by approximately $300,000 annually and gave this additionad amount to southern railroads.

They also argued that a retroactive provision of the order would require them to pay southern carriers more than $1,000,000, and called the division "confiscatory" and unconstitutional because, it was claimed, it did not provide sufficient revenue for transporting the citrus fruit and was not based on the actual expense.

$2,850 ELECTION PAYROLL READY

Checks totaling $2,850 are awaiting the 342 precinct officials who served in last Tuesday's primary election in Marion county, County Treasurer Homer D. Cole announced today.

The officials are to call for their checks at the treasurer's office in the courthouse. Presiding judges receive $10 for their one day's work and other officials are paid $8.

YOUTH MEETS DEATH IN DELAWARE CRASH

Francis Deal of Radnor One of 18 Killed Over Week-End in Traffic Accidents.

By The Associated Press

DELAWARE, O., May 18—Francis E. Deal, 20, of nearby Radnor, died yesterday of a crushed skull suffered when his automobile collided with a car driven by C. J. Fairbanks of Willoughby. The accident occurred on a curve north of here. Sheriff Chet McKinnie exonerated Fairbanks.

Deal was one of 18 who met death over the week-end.

In a wedding party tragedy at Youngstown Saturday seven persons lost their lives.

A group funeral will be held Wednesday for the seven wedding celebrants who died as a result of the collision of their automobile and a freight train six miles west of Youngstown Saturday. All seven victims—Samuel and John Carrozzino, Peter, Patrick, Dominic and Carl Pachell and Guy Petra—were relatives of the bride.

HASTINGS ATTACKS ROOSEVELT CLAIMS

Says Deficit Figure More Than Three Billion This Year.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 18—Sen. Hastings, Republican of Delaware, in a radio address last night, challenged President Roosevelt's statement that the federal deficit this year "is about $3,000,000,000," and that the national income has risen $60,000,000,0000 this year as compared with that of 1932.

Hastings said Chairman Marriner Eccles of the federal reserve board had repudiated the income figure and that Secretary Morgenthau had placed the deficit at "close to $6,000,00,000."

A statement by Chairman Henry P. Fletcher of the Republican national committee, said that government funds were used for "a Democratic publicity campaign of unprecedented magnitude."

A week-end political development included a statement from Carl G. Bachmann, Borah's campaign manager, in which he claimed 25 Pennsylvania delegates and "eight of nine" from West Virginia.

Walter S. Hallanan, Republican national committeeman from West Virginia, has claimed all that state's delegates will support Landon, except Bachmann.

Final tally of the Oregon primary votes showed that Borah, unopposed on the preferential ballot, received 84,203 votes compared with 81,771 for President Roosevelt, unopposed on the Democratic preference ballot.

SALES TAX STAMP TOTAL INCREASES

Sales tax receipts in Marion county last week jumped to $8,106.45, an increase of $1,542.68 over the previous week, County Treasurer Homer D. Cole reported today.

The treasurer said increased business in the county would be the only explanation for the sharp jump in stamp sales.

LEN SMALL, FORMER ILLINOIS CHIEF, DIES

Governor Who Built 7,000 Miles of Road, Succumbs After Operation.

By The Associated Press

KANKAKEE, Ill., May 18 — Leaders of both major parties today expressed regret at the sudden death of former Gov. Len Small, a power in Illinois Republican ranks since the turn of the century.

Small, 73, who earned the sobriquet "the hard roads governor" because 7,000 miles of highways were constructed during his two terms as chief executive, died unexpectedly yesterday at St. Mary's hospital from embolism.

He apparently had made substantial progress toward complete recovery from a minor operation performed last week, when the blood clot ended his life as he conversed with his sons, Leslie and Budd.

Small's crowded career as farmer, banker, publisher and business man reached its peak when he became the dominant leader of his party in Illinois.

He was first elected governor in 1920 with Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicago as one of his strong supporters.

Small sought the governorship five times. In last month's primary he ran second in a field of seven contenders. He polled 265,983 votes to 596,445 for C. Wayland Brooks of Chicago.

By The Associated Press

ATTICA, Kan., May 18—The high school seniors of this small southern Kansas town will have a "big Hour" tonight when their commencement address, by Gov. Alf M. Landon, is broadcast to the nation over NBC.

The broadcast is scheduled to start at 9 p. m. (E. S. T.) Landon, responding to an old friend's request that he address his son's graduating class "when you get to be governor," planned to fly from Topeka to Wichita this afternoon and proceed here by automobile.

LEPERS KILL SEVEN AND FLEE ISLAND

By The Associated Press

MANILA, May 18 — Six Moro lepers fled before the constabulary today after killing seven men in a bloody dash from the Culion Island leprosarium.

The armed lepers, under the leadership of one who called himself "Abdullah," killed four fishermen, seized a boat and fled the colony for Palawan and neighboring islands where their ruthlessness spread terror among the inhabitants.

STOCK EXCHANGE LEADERS ASSEMBLE

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., May 18 — Charles R. Gay, president of the New York Stock Exchange arrived here for the convention of the Associated Stock Exchanges today with the "hope we have made some change" in the public's opinion of the New York Stock Exchange.

"I have been going about the country, chiefly to show Americans outside of New York that we New Yorkers aren't different from them," he said. "A lot of people, you know, have the idea that a Wall Streeter is a member of a different race."

AUTO PLANTS SET PACE FOR STEEL

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, May 18 — The automobile industry continued last week to set the pace in steel requirements, the magazine Steel said today.

Automobile production, at 117,156 units last week, showed only a slight reduction, the publication said, and steelworks operations held at 68½ per cent.

Steelworks operations in the Pittsburgh district advanced one point to 63 per cent and at Buffalo, two points to 75. New England was down one point to 77, Wheeling 3 to 89 and Cincinnati 4 to 80. Operations in other districts were unchanged.

ICKES TELLS SENATE TO EXPAND WPA FUND

Increase in Figures Cited as Way Out of Present Financial Position.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 18—Secretary Ickes told a senate appropriations subcommittee today that a "way out" of the public works administrations' financial position might be found in the expansion of the $250,000,000 WPA revolving fund and the relaxation of statutes governing its operation.

The PWA administrator, whose organization is scheduled for curtailment under the $2,364,229,712 relief-deficiency bill before the subcommittee, testified behind closed doors.

Downtown, as he spoke, the District of Columbia court of appeals held that the 1935 relief appropriation act transgressed the Constitution. The pending bill with its $1,425,000,000 relief fund is modelled along similar lines.

Sen. Hayden, Democrat of Arizona, told reporters after Ickes testified that the secretary had "indicated" that his needs in securing funds with which to carry out some 3,000 approved projects might be found in this manner.

Hayden explained that present statutes limit the revolving fund to $250,000,000 with the reconstruction corporation acting as selling agent of PWA securities.

The Arizonan, who advocated an amendment to the bill to give Ickes $700,000,000, said this revolving fund is used for loans.

Ickes was to have appeared last Friday, but he cancelled the appointment. Under an amendment offered by Sen. Hayden, Democrat of Arizona, Ickes' public works administration would receive $700,000,000 which would be added to the $1,425,000,000 now provided in the relief bill, largely for Harry L. Hopkins' works progress administration.

The $700,000,000 suggestion was put forward at a time when it appeared that Ickes' PWA would get none of the $1,425,000,000 and was headed for oblivion next year.

THREE IN FAMILY PERISH IN BLAZE

By The Associated Press

WARSAW, KY., May 18—Three members of a family died in the blazing ruins of a home which collapsed about them, and authorities sought today to determine cause of the tragedy as plans for a group burial went forward.

The victims were Martin R. Madin, 57, agent for the Federal Farm Loan bank of Louisville, Ky., his wife, Nanny Ellin, 55, and their daughter, Mrs. William R. Gex, 25. Mrs. Gex's husband alone escaped the inferno, although he was burned and otherwise injured in leaping from a porch roof.

MONDAY, - - - - MAY 18, 1936

Ready for the Show.

A glance at the calendar confirms the fact that the first big act of the 1936 political circus, the Republican convention, is only a little more than three weeks away. While all the spectators and performers have been anticipating the event, time has been running on relentlessly. They've not much longer to wait.

Soon it will be known whether Sen. Borah and Gov. Smith will stay hitched or take a walk. Before long it will be spread on the record whether a majority of Ohio's unbound delegates are bound to Gov. Landon, Col. Knox, Sen. Vandenberg or Joe Whoozis.

In only a few more days suspense will be broken. There will be platforms, and candidates standing on them, all in harmony and order. It even will be disclosed that the vice presidential candidate of the Democratic party is going to be John N. Garner. As a special treat, there will be the new deal's pronouncement on the reduction of expenditures.

All these things are obvious. But then, so are the events of a circus. There always are elephants, trained horses, clowns and tight rope walkers. Unfailingly there are brass bands, merry-go-rounds and cotton candy. It's always the same, but never monotonous.

Anticipation never fails to be better than realization, furthermore. While waiting for the final big act that will leave everybody breathless, the onlooker loses his sense of time. Before he knows it the circus is over for another year—or for four more years.

That has been the way with events so far in 1936. With all eyes focused on the future the present is being lived almost too rapidly. The first of the two conventions is so close now that further speculation is almost useless. It seems better to wait and see. There isn't much time left.

Resistance.

America's trouble with airships, it seems safe to say, is more psychopathic than aeronautical. It doesn't know that there is any reason why it can't succeed, but it lacks confidence in itself.

Consequently, when Germany's fine new ship, the Hindenburg, reached this country a week ago, many Americans experienced a surge of confidence. If Germany could do it, America could too, they thought—not a new reaction, by any means.

So it isn't surprising to hear that by order of the house naval affairs committee the old dirigible Los Angeles is going to be put into flying condition again. Two years ago the ship was dismantled because it was too old. The government and the country, too, had no hope then.

The decision to make the Los Angeles ready for the air again is a clear example of the mental state caused by the accidents which happened to the Akron and Macon. Americans want to experiment with airships, and they don't want to experiment. They want to call it quits, but they don't want to surrender.

Not knowing what to do, they are going to try to satisfy themselves by flying the Los Angeles. German-built and ancient, but still the only thing they have. It's beginning to look as though they would have to put an extra cot in the psychopathic ward for Uncle Sam. His resistance is low.

Storms at Sea.

Waves of labor unrest which have been washing for many months past at the American merchant marine service have mounted to storm proportions. On the complaint of strikers, who swore they had affidavits to substantiate their assertions, sailing of the President Roosevelt was delayed an hour and a half the other day while government inspectors questioned the crew closely to ascertain whether, as strikers contended, the ship was being manned by incompetent seamen.

Government men, under Joseph B. Weaver, director of the U. S. bureau of navigation and steamboat inspection, concluded the strikers' charges were unfounded and permitted the ship to sail.

In this instance it appears that strikers, resentful of "strike breakers" being used, may have drawn upon imagination in an effort to dramatize their grievances. At least they refused steadfastly to hand over their affidavits to government officials.

The inquiry should not stop with the sailing of the President Roosevelt. Increasingly, rumors circulated about incompetently and insufficiently manned ships, deplorable working conditions and low pay have taken on ugly colors. The charges should be aired. If abuses exist, steps should be taken to remedy them. In the meantime, it is certain the storms which constantly are breaking out along American water fronts are causing many persons to question the safety of the marine service.

It is to be hoped the promised additional inquiry into this latest case will be carried forward vigorously and that it will lead to thorough investigation of the whole troublous situation.

Local Housecleaning.

Imprisoning gangsters and murderers for income tax violation is something like mother's asking dad to take Johnnie to the woodshed — because she knows he is going to be bad soon or has been bad before, and because she doesn't like the job herself. Such was the implication of Joseph B. Keenan, assistant to the United States attorney general, when he spoke in Cleveland Thursday night and denounced the income tax conviction of Al Capone as a "usurpation of power."

Mr. Keenan conceded the effectiveness of the centralized federal law enforcement agencies and declared that in cases within their jurisdiction federal agents rightfully enjoyed the benefits of not being bound by state lines. But, he insisted, "you are not making progress if you substitute the federal law to soften the community."

Doubtless local communities and states must take more than half the blame for federal encroachment upon their law enforcement pastures. Evidence exists to show that local communities often have capable and intelligent police officials and agents, but that their efforts are nullified by political manipulation.

If states don't wake up and clean their own houses, federal agents naturally are going to bring in more and more brooms. Praise has been showered so liberally on the G-men, for instance, it hardly would be surprising to find them believing in their own perfection and right to clean up local sore spots.

If states and local communities want to stop the federal invasion, if they want to convict criminals for the serious crimes they have committed, they must jump into action. Since consideration of crime headed its agenda, perhaps the Interstate Cooperative council which met recently in Chicago will find a way.

Fast Company.

One fact stands out clearly in the current ruckus over bridge as a possible medium for gamblers. It is that bridge players, good and bad, believe they are playing a game of skill.

The trouble is that some players become so skillful they enjoy a distinct advantage. The same situation exists in all games. It has been dealt with elsewhere by dividing players into professional and amateur groups.

Occasionally, an amateur may be of professional caliber. Sometimes, a professional may be of amateur caliber. Nevertheless, by separating the sheep from the goats in a general way much strife and bitterness are averted. The simon pures have a chance, at least, to stay out of fast company.

Bridge, which used to be a harmless parlor pastime, has been growing up rapidly. There are players who work at it; they are professionals. Others who merely play at it retain an amateur status. It's barely possible that before the issue is settled, the nation's bridge players may be partitioned into leagues. It seems no more than fair that Joe Doakes and Mrs. Doakes should know when they sit down for an evening of skill whether they're playing in Class A, the majors, or just with a pair of sandlotters. It might make some difference in their doubling.

Glancing Backward

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Tuesday, May 18, 1926.

Two lumberjacks were burned to death in the Allegheny national forest fire which was raging beyond control in Elk and McKean counties, Pennsylvania.

A recent report that Marion's city parks might be closed for the summer because of no funds having been appropriated brought the announcement that city council at its next meeting was likely to remedy the situation by providing a special appropriation.

Frank Solomon, 72, farmer living on the Green Camp-Owens pike south of Marion, had a remarkable escape from death when he was struck by a bolt of lightning during a violent rain and thunderstorm which hit the county.

Coal shipments of almost unprecedented proportions were passing through Marion. Officials of the Pennsylvania and Hocking Valley railroads reported an average of one train of 75 to 100 cars on each line every hour.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Sonner of Delaware. Mrs. Sonner before her marriage was Miss Kathryn White of Thew avenue.

Fire starting from a bolt of lightning destroyed a large barn, granary and several hundred bushels of grain on the Marion Bumgardner farm near Richwood. Loss was estimated at $6,000.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Thursday, May 18, 1916.

Mexican customs guards shot and killed an American soldier who had crossed the line a short distance east of Juarez. The incident served to intensify the dangerous situation existing along the border and in the interior of Mexico as a result of the presence of American troops hunting for Villa.

Important gains were made by the French troops on the west side of the Meuse river during the night, General Nivelle's forces capturing two important stations in the German trenches. A London dispatch reported that the French steamship, Mira, had been sunk by a mine or a submarine.

Miss Helen Louise Krause of Marion and Ira L. Stalter of Harpster were united in marriage at the Trinity Baptist parsonage by Dr. T. H. McAfee.

City Clerk Howard A. Stevens announced that all houses in the city would be renumbered.

The alumni of Green Camp High school gave its annual program in the town hall. The welcome to the class of 1916 was given by C. C. Ritzler and response in behalf of the class was made by Miss Esther Ziess.

Plenty of Politics Found in Relief

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1936, by The Marion Star

WASHINGTON, May 18—Politics in relief has become such a common-place charge hereabouts that Republicans assert it repeatedly, but Democrats scoff at it. Generalities have made little impression thus far. So it is interesting to note the widespread interest in congress which has been caused by the publication of a series of three articles by Mrs. Eugene Meyer, wife of the publisher of the Washington Post, who for 13 years has been chairman of the Westchester County Recreation commission.

Mrs. Meyer made a personal investigation of the relationship of politics and relief in Westchester county, which, for the benefit of those who do not live in the vicinity of New York, it should be remarked, is the county where New York City ends on the north and continues northward and westward and embraces a large population, including many who commute to New York City daily.

Members of congress have been confronted with such statements as these in Mrs. Meyer's articles:

"It is alarming to see congress supinely voting the President another billion and a half for the continuance of the most ruthless political machine that has ever existed in our country.

"We have witnessed extreme political corruption before, but it was confined to a municipality, a government department, or even a state. Never before have we had a national organization reaching out into the highways and byways and debauching the people as a whole. I shall endeavor to prove in these articles that the prime object of some of the WPA officials in Westchester county, N. Y., if not in other communities, is to buy allegiance to the national administration, to intimidate as far as possible those whose vote cannot be bought, and only lastly, to spend on relief cases such sums as are left when the previous objectives have been obtained."

Mrs. Meyer then proceeds to give details, incidents and facts concerning the handling of WPA in Westchester county and charges that John Buckley Bryan, regional director of WPA for the county, has made the following statement to one of her friends on three separate occasions:

"Franklin D. Roosevelt is the man who gave us this money and I would be the dirtiest kind of a dog-traitor if I didn't see to it that people who are 100 per cent for him receive first consideration."

Now the usual course when charges of this kind are made is for an official inquiry to be instituted. Data are sought as a rule by congressional committees by inviting witnesses to appear and tell their story. All efforts to have the WPA investigated have been squelched by the Democrats in congress at the behest of the administration. Just why the WPA should fight against an investigation of a matter as important as the disbursement of public funds is difficult to understand except that the presence of a big Democratic majority just makes it easy to ignore attacks because the votes to defeat resolutions of inquiry are available.

So instead of a congressional inquiry, the public will have to get its facts and revelations in another way. That's why Mrs. Meyer's articles are an important contribution to the cause of better publicity of what's going on in the use of public funds this campaign year. Doubtless her example will be followed by public-spirited citizens in the other counties of the United States where political corruption prevails so that the citizens may get at the truth.

The point of view of the new deal is not very much different from that which is reported to have been expressed by the WPA director in Westchester county. The theory is that it is Mr. Roosevelt's own fund that is being disbursed and that acknowledgements of a political character are due him. Thus Postmaster General Farley, who is chairman of the Democratic state committee of New York state, and who is touring the country in the interest of the political fortunes of the Democratic party, said in an address delivered in the last 48 hours to the Democratic state convention of Vermont:

"The people of Vermont can think for themselves and they know that the funds sent here by the federal government during the depression turned the economic tide. It has been conservatively estimated that more than $62,000,000 has been allotted, loaned, expended or disbursed in the Green Mountain section since March, 1933."

When a member of the President's cabinet and the chief of the Democratic national organization uses language as plain as that to a Democratic state convention it is not surprising that federal employes will accept it as the gospel of the new deal. Time was when the Republicans used to boast of what they did in the way of special favors for the people. But that was the old deal and somehow many people have been persuaded to believe that what the Republicans did by way of political sin would never be repeated or imitated by the virtuous exponents of the new idealism. But whether such an assumption is right or wrong, the congress isn't ready to allow the white light of investigating committees to direct public attention to the facts. Hence the alternative is to record the charges and let the people judge by their own observations whether the $4,000,000,000 fund is being properly or improperly disbursed.

Behind the News

Men and Affairs Under The Washington Spotlight.

BY PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, May 18 — The best possible insight into President Roosevelt's way of doing business was furnished by his relief announcement.

While Prof. Tugwell was howling to congress that he would go out of business July 1 unless he got more money; while Mr. Ickes was still planting data with congressmen to promote the earmarking of relief money for his PWA; while Mr. Hopkins was undermining both of them and running off with the relief swag:

Mr. Roosevelt flicked the ash from his cigaret and announced there was nothing in all this talk about Messrs. Hopkins, Ickes and Tugwell and their scramble for the relief doughbag. Nothing new in the situation at all. It was very simple. Tugwell is going to carry on just as he has been, with money from Hopkins. Ickes is going to continue his PWA with money from the RFC revolving fund.

Detection

You could tell from the President's patient tone of voice that it pained him inwardly to have to point out old stuff like this.

Reporters dashed from the room, sent off bulletins announcing in effect that Mr. Roosevelt's reformation of the new deal from within had been completed. Ickes and Tugwell were having their wings clipped. Hopkins was going to handle the swag.

Newsmen can detect the real news behind a painted tone when they hear it.

Residue

What every one knew was that Prof. Tugwell is not going to be able to rebuild the world on what he gets from Mr. Hopkins. Nor is Mr. Ickes going to be able to announce that PWA has furnished trillions of man-minutes of labor on the refunds he receives from the RFC revolving fund.

Both boys are through as world remakers, for the duration of the campaign at least. Their jobs will be sideline "samples." They will not handle the real goods.

But they will handle enough to keep themselves and their friends comfortably quiet. Exactly how much money they will get, nobody knows. They have an indeterminable amount of unexpended balances. Mr. Ickes would build municipal sewers and things like that, but no more Boulder dams. Mr. Hopkins will be able to play around with things he has started, but will start no new things.

In other words, an existing condition was accepted as a practical political compromise.

Relative Success

The secret of Mr. Hopkins' favor with Mr. Roosevelt is that he has done everything he was told to do. He has made as many mistakes as the other officials. Criticism has constantly thundered about his head. But when he was told to spend a certain amount of money, he did it. When he was told to put a certain number of men to work, he was able to produce figures indicating that he did it.

No other new deal lieutenant has been able to show the boss a similar record.

Weather Note

Some of the inside personal tiffs within Mr. Roosevelt's unhappy official family are becoming slightly rough.

One official, for instance, has been devoting himself to digging up highly personal data concerning the business past of another official. He has gone to a couple of Republican congressmen in an effort to persuade them to shoulder the material publicly, but they have declined. Now, when Republican congressmen decline to touch material against any new deal official, it is a fairly good sign that there is something wrong with the material.

Smuggling Diplomacy

The movement of more Japanese troops into north Chinto is not considered as important as a less obvious movement thereabouts.

The American and British trade markets in north China are being undermined by goods smuggled in from Japan's Manchoukuo and the free port of Dairen. The purpose of the smuggling is to escape Chinese customs duties and thus undersell American and British goods which pay the customs duties.

The rate at which smuggling has lately been increasing leads authorities here to estimate that it may soon cost the Chinese government $50,000,000 a year in revenue. Thus it may pinch their ability to pay the interest on British and American loans as well as British and American trade with China.

It is a new kind of economic warfare and our diplomats do not seem to know what to do about it. China says she cannot stop it. Japan says it is up to China to enforce her customs regulations.

Caution

The new deal diplomats did not care to press the senate to ratify the naval treaty at this session unless ratification was certain. So they sent the treaty to the senate informally and it was quietly passed around by Chairman Pittman of the senate foreign relations committee. He invited senators to take a look and see what a good treaty it was, so that the President could decide whether to submit it officially.

New York Notes

O. O. McIntyre's Diary of Fact, Fancy and Folks.

NEW YORK, May 18—Diary: Up and a note from Monta Bell filming in India. And out walking a way with Ted Woodyard, exchanging jape and quiddity. Then by the Ritz Carlton to see John Ringling, of the circuses, and in the foyer I bespoke myself to a lady I did not know, thinking she was Ina Claire.

So to the Colony for a late breakfast with my lady and was holpen twice to eggs Florentine. Afterward shopping and to call on Estelle and Gelett Burgess but they were out, and we by tram to Lucy Virginia Long's at Greenwich, as restful a country estate as ever I lazed about.

Home in the moonlight having missed Kay Brush's dinner bid and also seeing her guests, Irma and Rube Goldberg and the Arthur William Browns. Worked furiously until late and then reading the English edition of Dalton Trumbo's "Eclipse," which he is gracious enough to say I inspired.

An increasing number of stage and screen folk are nibbling ends of pens and gazing reflectively out windows in the tantalizing throes of literary creation. Peggy Wood recently enlarged her writing horizon with another full length novel of back stage doings. She has in the past written a novel, several short stories, essays and a preface to a modern edition of her father, Eugene Wood's "Back Home." Mary Pickford has turned out three volumes in a year. Joan Crawford is rumored flirting with a historical fantasy. And Cissie Loftus is planning her memoirs. So is Ethel Barrymore.

Broadway went for pixilation in a big way. It was soon being lyricized on the air and in cabarets. Gary Cooper brought it out of the moth balls in a recent film. It's an old New England expression derived from the English word pixie —meaning elves, and often resurrected in a whimsy by Alexander Woollcott. In a slang way out in Ohio pixilation meant a bit balmy. Silly Tom was pixilated and so was Ida Strump who chewed snuff, lived across the creek and came to town in her bare feet. All of us O-fillers, coin jinglers and button tuggers are pixiled.

I talked to a kindly gentleman today who was in a state of utter dejection. In his morning mail he received a most unjust, sarcastic letter from one of his intimate friends—a friend since preparatory school days. It was filled with invective over a situation for which he was blamed and with which he had nothing to do. The recipient spent several hours thinking up a reply and then in a flash inspiration wrote across the envelope "Opened by Mistake," and returned it.

Milady's hat continues to dwindle. A collection of them raked from smartly coiffed heads at any Colony luncheon would scarcely suffice for a dozen pen wipers. Just a dab of felt or something and there you are! And removing bonnets at the theater is lost motion. Nobody minds the hats. Yet milliners say the new diminutive style is the most difficult of all to fashion. Mrs. Byron Foy, one of the town's better dressed matrons, is the most auspicious exponent of the tiny hat. A runner-up is Mrs. Orson Munn. A number of their models would just about cover the palms of their hands. No one seems to know exactly where the craze came from. Some say Paris and others it was the sly conceit of that pair of side-splitting harlequins who milliner to the haute monde along the select shopping district of Madison avenue—John-Frederics.

He was a flop-eared longhorn who came out of a revolving door of the Roosevelt, pell mell, as though expecting a kick from behind. "Can't expect a fellow to get the hang of them in two days," he grinned to the starter.

TODAY — Organized Charity Better Than Indiscriminate Giving.

New York police arrested a middle-aged woman, begging near church and "acting strangely." She wore men's shoes, five dresses one over the other, and carried bank books showing deposits of $25,000.

This should not discourage wise charity. Not every old woman, begging, has four extra dresses and $25,000. But it might well discourage thoughtless, indiscriminate giving, which encourages professional beggary and causes young beggars to graduate as criminals.

Round Trips to Europe

Sir Hubert Wilkins, who has flown in the Arctic, Antarctic and other queer regions by plane, crossed the Atlantic by dirigible recently.

Says Sir Hubert:

"From almost anywhere in the United States, a business man could spend Wednesday and Thursday going about his business, catch the dirigible by airplane Thursday midnight, spend two business days in Europe and be at his desk the early part of the next week."

Three airships like the Hindenburg would do the job. Later you will read, and take for granted, such a statement as this: "Left Chicago by our luxurious liner at 6 a. m., lunch and shop in Paris, dine in London that same day, returning home in time for business next morning." Many now living will make such trips. It is a pity that this nation, possessing a monopoly of the only safe gas, helium, lacks the energy, courage, skill or enterprise to build dirigibles and make them stay up.

It ought to be done, if only as "good politics," giving the Stars and Stripes an airing, instead of letting the Swastika monopolize the Atlantic.

Counting the Ethiopians

Following an old Roman custom, Mussolini is taking a census of the Ethiopians that remain. The total number is between six and fourteen millions. Exact figures are wanted.

The able-bodied will be put to work, plows, spades and shovels supplied by Mussolini, with Italians telling the Ethiopians where and what to dig. That need not horrify us, for it is what we have been doing in this country for a long time. It will be better for the Ethiopians than killing and selling each other into slavery.

No More Fences

Uncle Sam's gold system plagues criminals, with stolen gold watches, rings and other jewelry for sale. Formerly the thief went to the pawnshop, that "lent" him, or he applied to the professional "fence" receiver of stolen goods, of whom "Mother" Mandelbaum was the type in the good old days.

No need of any Mother Mandelbaum now. The thief takes his gold to an old "gold dealer," who pays a regulation price, then turns the loot over to the government, to be buried in a hole in the ground "just in case airplanes or racketeers should try to take it from us."

Accidents do happen, however, and New York police hope to capture two men that robbed, strangled a merchant in the subway. The murderers sold their victim's watch and gold medal to a gold dealer who now describes them.

Foreign governments seem able to manage public ownership of important necessities. The fastest railroad trains on earth run on government-owned railroads in France and Germany, although it is hoped that W. A. Harriman will change that. His father was a great railroad man.

The Canadian Pacific Railroad continues building a great ocean fleet. A new 42,500-ton steamer is ordered, sister to the Empress of Britain, and three other 20,000-ton ships will be built.

Our commercial navy is a jest. We got one big ship from Germany, named it Leviathan and then found we could not run it.

What is the matter with us? Can we do nothing but lay taxes to feed the idle? And when the tax-well dries up what shall we do?

Hitler beats us in the air, little Canada makes us ridiculous on the ocean. The United States was not always like that.

Every intelligent person ought to know about words. They are the tools of the brain. For that reason you will enjoy reading, if you can get it, "Words and Their Ways in English Speech," written by Professors Greenough and Kittredge of Harvard university.

A few samples: Bedlam is short for Bethlehem, an establishment in London dedicated to St. Mary of Bethlehem, which charitably took care of lunatics. The English like brevity, and called it "Bedlam."

Their expression "bloody," frequently used by certain classes, is short for "by our lady." Zounds is short for "God's wounds."

The best language, like the best race, is the one most thoroughly mixed, and English is the most mixed language. Latin, Greek, French, Arabic are a few of the many "tongues," that doubtless originated with the Tower of Babel, to find a home in English.

Enthusiasm is a Greek word that means "inspiration," to be possessed by a divine spirit, from en, meaning "in," and theos, meaning "god."

Without enthusiasm, no inspiration; and with no inspiration nothing else worth while.

You should read that book about words; public libraries have it. The authors say, concluding their volume, "Words are the signs of thought and thoughts make history." Thoughts also make words, changing them slowly from age to ages.

HAUPTMANN DISPUTE ISSUE IN NEW JERSEY

Newark insurance executive, as the four candidates for delegateships having Republican state organization support, the governor fought to finish first.

Confronted with reports of sizeable Fort strength in the northern New Jersey suburban area, Hoffman campaigned as intensively as for any of the 10 elective offices he has held.

Neither Gov. Landon nor Sen. Borah formally entered the New Jersey presidential preference primary, but supporters posted their names and delegate slates in almost all the state's 14 congressional districts.

On the Democratic side, Henry T. Breckinridge, legal adviser to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, ran in the presidential primary unopposed, but the Democratic state organization of Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City was running delegates to their national convention pledged to President Roosevelt. The Hague candidates are certain of election.

CALEDONIA CLASSES AT BANQUET HERE

Forty Attend Social Event at Hotel Harding.

Special to The Star

CALEDONIA, O., May 18—Forty juniors, seniors, faculty members and guests attended the Caledonia High school junior-senior banquet Saturday night at Hotel Harding in Marion. After the banquet there was a theater party at the Palace theater.

Evelyn McLain, president of the junior class, presided as toastmistress and gave the address of welcome, to which Wayne Goken responded in behalf of the senior class.

The class will was read by Earl Smith and the prophecy was given by Betty Timson. Mr. and Mrs. William Steinbauer played a violin duet, accompanied at the piano by Miss Whiley, and G. W. Cox, superintendent, gave a talk. A group of popular songs was sung by a junior quartet composed of Ruth Roberts, Kenetha Geyer, Jean Mills and Mercides Hoffman.

SOLDIERS, SOCIALISTS NOW RULING BOLIVIA

War Hero of Gran Chaco, Col. David Toro, Succeeds Civilian President.

By The Associated Press

LA PAZ, Bolivia, May 18—A provisional junta of soldiers and Socialists ruled Bolivia today after the civilian government of President Jose Luis Tejada Sorzano fell in a peaceful military coup.

The new council called war hero Col. David Toro back from the Gran Chaco to become president, gained suspension of a general strike movement and proclaimed as its objective to "orient the nation toward a Socialistic state by prudent, gradual means, without convulsions."

Advices from the interior indicated absolute tranquility prevailed throughout this South American state of almost 3,000,000 people.

The government overturn was the second to arise in the aftermath of the long Chaco war. Bolivia's soldiers seized power just three months after their former enemies in Paraguay ousted President Eusebio Ayala and installed Col. Rafael Franco as chief executive.

So sudden and unexpected was the movement that President Tejada Sorzano worked at his desk until late Saturday night, left the palace without noticing the slightest indication of a plot and announced he would return to his office this morning.

METHODIST BISHOPS AWAIT ASSIGNMENTS

Committee on Episcopacy Ready To Make Its Recommendations.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 18—The assignment of Bishops for the next four years was the principal item of business before the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church today as delegates prepared to end the meeting which opened 18 days ago.

The committee on Episcopacy was ready to recommend the assignment of bishops, including four new members of the board consecrated at services last night. Delegates, anxious to reach final adjournment by noon Tuesday, prepared to vote approval of the assignments.

The conference auditorium was filled last night by a capacity audience as the four bishops-elect, a missionary bishop, and a central conference bishop were consecrated.

The new bishops were Wilbur E. Hammaker, veteran Youngstown, O., pastor; Charles W. Flint, chancellor of Syracuse, N. Y., university; G. Bromley Oxnam, president of DePauw university; and Alexander P. Shaw, new bishop named to succeed Bishop Matthew W. Clair of Covington, Ky.

They, with Missionary Bishop John M. Springer, elected to serve in South Africa, and Central Conference Bishop Robert Elphick, named by South American Methodists several months ago, took their vows as general superintendents of the church.

ZEPPELIN WEATHERS BIG STORM OVER SEA

Takes Southern Course to U. S. After Encountering Mist Over Channel.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 18—The Zeppelin Hindenburg, weathering a heavy rainstorm steadily, sped far out over the North Atlantic today on its second flight from Germany to the United States.

At 7 a. m. (E. S. T.) the Hindenburg reported to the Radio Marine Corp. that her position was 43 degrees, 8 minutes north latitude and 37 degrees 43 minutes west longitude. This was approximately 1,360 miles east of New York.

The Hindenburg left Frankfort at 11:35 p. m., E. S. T., Saturday after the departure was delayed by adverse winds.

After crossing The Netherlands and England, the Zeppelin encountered a heavy mist over the English channel, together with slightly adverse winds, and took a route south of the great northern circle and steamship course, toward the Azores.

Struck by a heavy rainstorm from the northeast late yesterday, the great lighter-than-air craft caught about two tons of water. Although the wind roared at a 45-mile-an-hour pace, dispatches from the Zeppelin said it came through the storm easily.

If the Hindenburg equalled the time of 61 hours, 52 minutes, made on its first flight last week to Lakehurst, N. J., it would pass over New York around noon tomorrow.

before. "The point has been reached," he said, "where the better men will have an opportunity to choose a position. I believe also that there will be better pay for the graduate of 1936."

Of 73 members of Mount Union's senior class who were interviewed, only seven do not have jobs in view or are not going on to school. The teaching profession will furnish 26 jobs, while 19 others plan to be about everything from salesmen to professional baseball players.

Dean Donfred H. Gardner of Akron university reported that "placements seem slower this year," but added that the tire and rubber plants there do their selecting later. Kent State university reported more teaching positions available than in former years.

Dr. Maurice J. Neuberg, director of personnel and placement at Wittenberg college, said he is not optimistic over placing as many graduates this year as he did in 1935. He said five large industries which have cooperated wth the college for years were asking for but six men this year, after selecting 25 a year ago.

GUFFEY LAW RULED OUT BY HIGH COURT

refer to decisions of this court which foreclose the question."

The NRA decision also was cited in this connection.

In another ruling the court denied commission men buying and selling livestock at the Chicago Union stockyards the right to collect rates higher than those authorized by Secretary Wallace.

The unanimous decision was delivered by Justice Roberts.

It was given in two cases involving the secretary's power under the 1921 packers and stockyards act.

Rates were reduced by Wallace in an order issuer Jan. 8, 1934. It was modified upward somewhat on March 12.

Upheld in Lower Court

Wallace was sustained by a three-judge federal district court and the dealers appealed to the supreme court.

Later, on Oct. 19, 1935, the commission men published a new set of higher rates to become effective Nov. 1, 1935. Wallace returned the schedule without calling a hearing to determine whether it was reasonable. The dealers contended it became effective and were upheld by the same three-judge federal court.

An interstate commerce commission order prescribing how joint rates on citrus fruit shipments from Florida to the east and mid-west should be divided among the railroads was upheld by the supreme court.

Opinion Unanimous

In an unanimous opinion delivered by Justice Butler, the tribunal affirmed a ruling by a three-judge federal district court in eastern Virginia, which sustained the 1934 order.

The Baltimore & Ohio and other northern carriers had contended the ICC order decreased their revenue by approximately $300,000 annually and gave this additionad amount to southern railroads.

They also argued that a retroactive provision of the order would require them to pay southern carriers more than $1,000,000, and called the division "confiscatory" and unconstitutional because, it was claimed, it did not provide sufficient revenue for transporting the citrus fruit and was not based on the actual expense.

$2,850 ELECTION PAYROLL READY

Checks totaling $2,850 are awaiting the 342 precinct officials who served in last Tuesday's primary election in Marion county, County Treasurer Homer D. Cole announced today.

The officials are to call for their checks at the treasurer's office in the courthouse. Presiding judges receive $10 for their one day's work and other officials are paid $8.

Austrian monarchists find comfort in the reported return to Vienna of Archduchess Adelhaide, 21, sister of Archduke Otto, claimant to the throne, even though she says she is there to study "political science." YOUTH MEETS DEATH IN DELAWARE CRASH

Francis Deal of Radnor One of 18 Killed Over Week-End in Traffic Accidents.

By The Associated Press

DELAWARE, O., May 18—Francis E. Deal, 20, of nearby Radnor, died yesterday of a crushed skull suffered when his automobile collided with a car driven by C. J. Fairbanks of Willoughby. The accident occurred on a curve north of here. Sheriff Chet McKinnie exonerated Fairbanks.

Deal was one of 18 who met death over the week-end.

In a wedding party tragedy at Youngstown Saturday seven persons lost their lives.

A group funeral will be held Wednesday for the seven wedding celebrants who died as a result of the collision of their automobile and a freight train six miles west of Youngstown Saturday. All seven victims—Samuel and John Carrozzino, Peter, Patrick, Dominic and Carl Pachell and Guy Peira—were relatives of the bride.

HASTINGS ATTACKS ROOSEVELT CLAIMS

Says Deficit Figure More Than Three Billion This Year.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 18—Sen. Hastings, Republican of Delaware, in a radio address last night, challenged President Roosevelt's statement that the federal deficit this year "is about $3,000,000,000," and that the national income has risen $50,000,000,0000 this year as compared with that of 1932.

Hastings said Chairman Marriner Eccles of the federal reserve board had repudiated the income figure and that Secretary Morgenthau had placed the deficit at "close to $6,000,00,000."

A statement by Chairman Henry P. Fletcher of the Republican national committee, said that government funds were used for "a Democratic publicity campaign of unprecedented magnitude."

A week-end political development included a statement from Carl G. Bachmann, Borah's campaign manager, in which he claimed 25 Pennsylvania delegates and "eight of nine" from West Virginia.

Walter S. Hallanan, Republican national committeeman from West Virginia, has claimed all that state's delegates will support Landon, except Bachmann.

Final tally of the Oregon primary votes showed that Borah, unopposed on the preferential ballot, received 84,203 votes compared with 81,771 for President Roosevelt, unopposed on the Democratic preference ballot.

SALES TAX STAMP TOTAL INCREASES

Sales tax receipts in Marion county last week jumped to $8,106.45, an increase of $1,542.68 over the previous week, County Treasurer Homer D. Cole reported today.

The treasurer said increased business in the county would be the only explanation for the sharp jump in stamp sales.

LEN SMALL, FORMER ILLINOIS CHIEF, DIES

Governor Who Built 7,000 Miles of Road, Succumbs After Operation.

By The Associated Press

KANKAKEE, Ill., May 18 — Leaders of both major parties today expressed regret at the sudden death of former Gov. Len Small, a power in Illinois Republican ranks since the turn of the century.

Small, 73, who earned the sobriquet "the hard roads governor" because 7,000 miles of highways were constructed during his two terms as chief executive, died unexpectedly yesterday at St. Mary's hospital from embolism.

He apparently had made substantial progress toward complete recovery from a minor operation performed last week, when the blood clot ended his life as he conversed with his sons, Leslie and Budd.

Small's crowded career as farmer, banker, publisher and business man reached its peak when he became the dominant leader of his party in Illinois.

He was first elected governor in 1920 with Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicago as one of his strong supporters.

Small sought the governorship five times. In last month's primary he ran second in a field of seven contenders. He polled 265,053 votes to 596,445 for C. Wayland Brooks of Chicago.

MANILA, May 18 — Six Moro lepers fled before the constabulary today after killing seven men in a bloody dash from the Culion island leprosarium.

The armed lepers, under the leadership of one who called himself "Abdullah," killed four fishermen, seized a boat and fled the colony for Palawan and neighboring islands where their ruthlessness spread terror among the inhabitants.

CLEVELAND, O., May 18 — Charles R. Gay, president of the New York Stock Exchange arrived here for the convention of the Associated Stock Exchanges today with the "hope we have made some change" in the public's opinion of the New York Stock Exchange.

"I have been going about the country, chiefly to show Americans outside of New York that we New Yorkers aren't different from them," he said. "A lot of people, you know, have the idea that a Wall Streeter is a member of a different race."

AUTO PLANTS SET PACE FOR STEEL

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, May 18 — The automobile industry continued last week to set the pace in steel requirements, the magazine Steel said today.

Automobile production, at 117,156 units last week, showed only a slight reduction, the publication said, and steelworks operations held at 65½ per cent.

Steelworks operations in the Pittsburgh district advanced one point to 63 per cent and at Buffalo, two points to 75. New England was down one point to 77, Wheeling 3 to 89 and Cincinnati 4 to 80. Operations in other districts were unchanged.

ICKES TELLS SENATE TO EXPAND WPA FUND

Increase In Figures Cited as Way Out of Present Financial Position.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 18—Secretary Ickes told a senate appropriations subcommittee today that a "way out" of the public works administrations' financial position might be found in the expansion of the $250,000,000 WPA revolving fund and the relaxation of statutes governing its operation.

The PWA administrator, whose organization is scheduled for curtailment under the $2,364,229,712 relief-deficiency bill before the subcommittee, testified behind closed doors.

Downtown, as he spoke, the District of Columbia court of appeals held that the 1935 relief appropriation act transgressed the Constitution. The pending bill with its $1,425,000,000 relief fund is modelled along similar lines.

Sen. Hayden, Democrat of Arizona, told reporters after Ickes testified that the secretary had "indicated" that his needs in securing funds with which to carry out some 3,000 approved projects might be found in this manner.

Hayden explained that present statutes limit the revolving fund to $250,000,000 with the reconstruction corporation acting as selling agent of PWA securities.

The Arizonan, who advocated an amendment to the bill to give Ickes $700,000,000, said this revolving fund is used for loans.

Ickes was to have appeared last Friday, but he cancelled the appointment. Under an amendment offered by Sen. Hayden, Democrat of Arizona, Ickes' public works administration would receive $700,000,000 which would be added to the $1,425,000,000 now provided in the relief bill, largely for Harry L. Hopkins' works progress administration.

The $700,000,000 suggestion was put forward at a time when it appeared that Ickes' PWA would get none of the $1,425,000,000 and was headed for oblivion next year.

Johnny Crone, Red Foy and Bert Phillips finished in that order in the last of the elimination events, completed the course in 5:32.5.

Chittum, starting from the pole position, led the entire way in the final event and finished in 8:36.5. Lanker, far back in sixth position as the race began, moved up steadily, pulling into second position just before the start of the final lap. His attempt to overtake Chittum failed and the Carey driver placed second.

Stunter Escapes Injury

The races were completed without serious accident, but another performer on the program narrowly escaped injury. Charles "Dick" Jewell of St. Louis, Mo., a former movie stunt man, put on several exhibition acts between the racing events. It was during the first of his acts, when he attempted to slide on a pulley attached to a cable, from the top of the grandstand to the center of the oval. Hanging by his teeth, Jewell started his slide, but the moorings of the rope collapsed and he crashed into the roof of the grandstand. The impact of his fall broke the metal roof but Jewell succeeded in clinging to the steel girders and pulling himself to safety.

Undaunted by the accident Jewell entertained the crowd with a demonstration of "Sane and Insane Driving," and in his final act, fell from a speeding automobile.

AUSTINBURG

Austinburg, a small Ashtabula village about five miles west of Jefferson was much talked of because Edwin Cowles, a noted editor of the state 50 years ago, was placed in the hall of fame of Ohio State university's school of journalism.

Cowles was born there in 1825.

Two other special distinctions belong to this town of Austinburg. The first church in the Western Reserve was lovated there Oct. 24, 1801, and when Rev. Joseph Badger moved his family from Buffalo to Austinburg, they traveled in a wheeled vehicle and that was the first occasion in the population of Ohio that a wheeled vehicle was used.

Your Health

BY DR. R. S. COPELAND

Diathermy.

Not long ago, I told you about the methods of treatment used in "physical therapy." I pointed out that physical therapy employs the natural forces, such as light, heat, air and water. Also, exercise and massage are included in this system of treatment and cure of certain ailments. Today I want to tell you about "diathermy," another form of physical therapy.

Heat has always been used as a curative measure for certain ailments. Our forefathers used heated soapstones, bricks, flat irons and even utilized jars filled with hot water. In this modern day heat is used for the same ailments, but it is applied in a more scientific manner.

Diathermy is in reality the use of a "high-frequency" electric current which generates heat in some portion of the body. By means of this device, heat may be brought to the area that needs it and will be benefited by the application.

Diathermy is not a "cure all." In fact, it may be harmful when used in certain conditions. For this reason the lay public is advised not to purchase so-called diathermy machines for self use. Wrongly used it may lead to further irritation and inflammation of the affected part. Let your doctor decide whether you require diathermy treatment.

No one should be permitted to handle a diathermy machine or direct its application unless he is familiar with the exact use and limitations of this form of treatment. Your doctor is qualified and he alone is in a position to determine whether or not you should receive diathermy.

The use of diathermy may be either medical or surgical. The medical form is used in the treatment of arthritis, neuritis, rheumatism, pneumonia and other inflammations. When used for destruction of a tumor, cyst or other growth, it is spoken of as surgical diathermy.

The modern diathermy machine is quite different from that used several years ago. The engineering profession, with the cooperation of the medical profession, has perfected this machine and improved its usage. No doubt many of my readers will recall the startling noises and flashes of electricity that occurred when the old type machine was used. All this has been done away with and the machine is compact, noiseless and efficient.

When properly controlled it has great value. If you have been advised to receive diathermy treatment, do not hesitate to have it. It is not dangerous in skilled hands and is extremely beneficial in certain afflictions.

The Stars Say--

For Tuesday, May 19

AN EXTREMELY lively day is forecast from the lunar transits, one in which there may be some surprising and perplexing situations, possibly of devastating force. There may be sudden upheavals with unexpected change or travel. If this be in connection with rings, mergers, secret societies or in affairs of diplomacy, conspiracy or stratagem, there may be startling benefits.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of rather peculiar and surprising adventures, with sudden moves and probably upheavals. If instigated by mergers, combines, secret bodies or in strategic projects, benefits may be expected.

A child born on this day may have a peculiar and restless disposition, much enterprise and ardor, but also a reckless and curious urge to adventure and speculation. It may be difficult to understand or control.

Notable nativity: Samuel G. Blythe, author.

HONOR WITHHELD FROM GRACE MOORE

By International News Service

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, May 18—Grace Moore's American forgetfulness of the presence of a king was rumored to have cost the silver-toned opera and movie singer a high royal decoration today. She forgot to bow.

But the lovely star nevertheless received a huge bouquet of flowers from the hand of King Christian of Denmark when, during the intermission between the second and third acts of the opera La Boheme, Miss Moore was presented to the monarch in the royal family's box at the opera house.

The Danish government wireless erroneously announced that Miss Moore had been favored by the king with the order of "Ingelo et Arti," Denmark's highest decoration for artists.

Later, however, it was learned King Christian had given Miss Moore only the bouquet of flowers.

Married Comrades

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge and Dicky make final preparations for trip to see Marion.

"LET Me whisper a word of advice in your shell-like ear," Dicky said as he unlocked the door of his studio bedroom. I had just outlined my plan to visit Marion and find out the meaning of her secret, written appeal.

"Don't dwell too much on the lengthy shopping motif with old Lil. She knows your little shopping ways.

"Tell her, of course, that you're going shopping, but add the information that I insist, for safety's sake, and to escape the comment of neighbors that we start before breakfast and come back after dark, and that therefore we're going to make a day of it in between."

"You see, I'm stealing your thunder, darling," he said with a grin. "You planned that out first. But I think, under the circumstances—"

"It makes it just perfect and so much more plausible, coming from you," I said warmly. "Thank you so much."

"You're so welcome," he gibed, and then he walked with me to the door of my room and kissed me goodnight.

"Suppose I toddle downstairs, say goodnight to the Underwoods, say casually that we're starting before daylight for New York, ask them to carry on for us. I'll tell Lil that you'd like to see her before you sleep. You'll want her to tell mother about it—and Katie?" He finished on an interrogative note.

Will Tell Katie

"I'll tell Katie myself tonight," I said. "She doesn't go to bed early. But I'll be so glad to have Lillian deal with mother. I'll wait to see Katie until after she comes up. But don't hurry her. I'm not at all sleepy."

"You'd better be," he said severely. "Rising at that hour, we'll have to alternate driving and sleeping and I have no ambition to look at a car from a ditch below it, after you've gone to sleep at the wheel!"

"If you'll look after the 'beam' in your eye, I'll attend to the 'mote' in mine," I told him pertly.

"Anybody who'd twist scripture to make a point!" he rejoined scornfully as he turned away, and closing my door, I made my simple preparations for the journey of the morrow. I put ready to hand every article of clothing I meant to wear, and saw that my purse, gloves, hat, motor coat and the small emergency bag without which I never start on a journey for fear some ac may compel my absence home for overnight.

Tub and Shower

Then I took a hot tub by a tepid shower, and into my night attire, covered my lounging robe and slipper took down the house te which connects my room kitchen and Katie's third rooms.

"Will you come up to at once, Kattie, please" when her voice finally answer me from her own quarters.

"Sure, I coom right avay q she said. "Meester Graha Meester Underwood no oop s

"No, they are downstairs joined, wondering a bit at the tion. But she explained im ly.

"Den I no boder feex op rejoined with engaging "Me I look like sometings old dragged in, but vimmens de care."

When she arrived I gave inclare though untruthful look all right, Katie," and lowed it up with the state that I was going to leave for York before daylight.

Gets Instructions

She threw up her head as if were a soldier receiving orders her oral response almost made lose control of my risibles.

"Shoot all de works," she "I do anytings you say."

"It's very simple," I said anybody calls and asks to see or asks to speak to me on the phone, you say, 'I'm sorry, but Graham cannot come downs just now', or 'Mrs Graham can come to the telephone, but Underwood is here. She will to you.' Can you remember that

She drew her brows into a fr of concentration.

"Say eet vunce again, alre yet," she pleaded.

I repeated by injunction then she meticulously went the lesson after me, once, tw three times, stumbling a bit first, but finally repeating it fectly.

"You terribly smart voma she said when she had finis "You feex eet, so I no haf to lie, und yet dey tink you home. I promise you dees. Nobody oudt you gone from me, eef stay vun year."

Mrs. Thurn Tells How To Plan Mexican Party

Dear friends in Marion: Let's give a Mexican party! Everyone is talking about our neighbors in the [illegible]. The new roads leading to [illegible] have increased interest [illegible] and friends are bringing [illegible] ideas of our glamorous, [illegible] neighbors.

Colorful linens, fragile pottery, and bubble glassware would be truly native.

For the table, use either natural colored loosely woven linen, heavily embroidered in cream colored [illegible] or some gay Aztec design [illegible] stamped designs with colored threads and charts may be obtained in most department stores); or the sheer mats made of lace intricately woven on hairpins by Mexican women.

Marigolds, meaning "welcome" to the Mexicans, as they did to their Aztec ancestors, would make a bright centerpiece; though all flowers grow in profusion and are loved by the Mexicans.

The Mexicans would likely use bright colored pottery from Oxaca, or that from San Pedro Tlaquepaque, which combines figures of ancient religious customs and tedious designs resembling the old Grecian pottery. There is a fragile, beautiful pottery also made in Gaudalajara and is exquisite when used with hand blown glass of greenish blue, or grape color.

For our "at home" Mexican dinner, we would use peasant linen of the brightest colors, green or blue glasses, and rough, inexpensive pottery plates in color.

TRUE MEXICAN COOKERY

All cooking in Mexico is done over charcoal as there is no need of haste, nor is there coal. The cheaper cuts of meat and vegetables form the main dishes but the seasonings are perfectly blended and the slow cookery makes each dish a masterpiece.

Most of the cooking is done in brown clay dishes. Most families mold their own utensils from clay near at home. They are molded by untrained but skillful hands and are cheap and tough as iron. Water and fire only darkens them and they give years of service.

In the city hotels and restaurants, the cooking is more French than Spanish. Now American cookery is creeping in even to waffles and corn on the cob.

The recipes for the Mexican party have come from the Mexican villages where foreign cookery has not penetrated. Mexicans eat very sparingly and their staples are simple. They can create miracles with three basic ingredients, tortilla, chili, and frijoles.

Tortilla is a maize wafer. Corn is sometimes white, red or blue depending on the locality in which it is grown. The maize wafer is made of finely ground meal, washed and reground between stones; then tossed and patted into thin cakes in a precise, traditional way and finally laid to brown on tin griddles over the glowing charcoals. When fried, the tortilla becomes a tostado.

Roll the tortilla around a cheese, onion and chili combination and the result is an enchilada.

Frijoles, the Mexican beans that are not unlike our kidney beans, are the staple starchy foods that takes the place of our potato and rice. Frijoles are usually fried.

Chili Pepper Paste

This paste is used in seasoning almost all dishes. Remove all seeds and inside veins from chili peppers. Wash well and cover with hot water. Soak in a warm place until very soft. Grind through the food chopper several times. This paste mixes easily with other foods and imparts a delightful flavor.

If dried pods of chili cannot be purchased, substitute one teaspoon of commercial chili powder for each tablespoon of paste called for in the following recipes.

Chili Con Carne

One-fourth pound of pork; one clove of garlic; one fourth cup fat; one pound of beef, either neck or shank; one large onion and six teaspoons of pepper paste; salt to taste.

Cut meat in half inch cubes and sear over in a heavy pan in which the fat has been previously melted. When seared on all sides, add seasonings and cover with water. Place over a low fire and simmer for two to three hours, adding a little water if needed. When the meat is tender, the sauce should be a rich red, thick and smooth.

Sopa de Arroz

One cup of rice; one clove of garlic; one pint of tomatoes; two tablespoons fat; one pint boiling water; one tablespoon pepper paste; one onion, finely chopped.

Wash and drain the rice well. Heat the fat in a saucepan and add the raw rice, onion and garlic. Cook only until yellow, stirring constantly. Heat the tomatoes, add the rice, pepper paste and boiling water. Cover closely and cook for 15 minutes, then add salt and simmer until rice is soft and the liquid absorbed.

Arroz Y Gallina a la Valencia

One tender chicken; one slice onion; one half clove garlic; two tablespoons pepper paste; one cup rice; two cups tomatoes; three tablespoons fat; water to cover chicken.

Prepare chicken as for frying, salt and dredge with flour, then brown in hot fat. Cover with boiling water and cook slowly until tender and liquid is reduced to two cups. Heat tomatoes, add rice and seasonings, prepare as for "Sopa de Arroz." Add chicken and cook gently until rice is tender and liquid is absorbed. Arrange on a platter and garnish with rings of red and green pepper.

Huevos

Six eggs; two tablespoons minced onion; two tablespoons minced green pepper; one half cup chopped fresh tomatoes; one half teaspoon salt; one half teaspoon cayenne; two tablespoons melted fat; buttered toast; one teaspoon minced parsley.

Cook the onion and green pepper in the melted fat until slightly brown. Add the tomatoes, salt and cayenne, cover closely and set on the very low heat; preferably to keep hot but not to cook. Fry the eggs on both sides, lay each egg on a round of toast, and pour the hot sauce over it, garnishing with minced parsley.

Other Mexican Foods

Cafe, or coffee, Mexican style, is served with hot milk or cream. This is the most appropriate drink to serve with Mexican food.

Pinapple is often used for dessert.

French bread is used in place of tortillas in many places.

WOMAN—AND THE OTHER WOMAN

About all that a woman gets out of giving a man a piece of her mind is the vocal exercise.

A man's wife is usually some other woman's fault. Almost any girl can marry a man in that weak moment when he is trying to escape from "the woman just before."

No matter how innocent a man may be, the consciousness that his wife has her eye on him makes him as nervous as the sound of a traffic-cop's whistle.

Why should a heartbreaker feel so set up over his sentimental conquests at this time of year, when there is plenty of parking space in almost any girl's heart for any man who will play Romeo?

* * *

Half of our matrimonial troubles grow out of a woman's attempt to let her conscience be her husband's guide—and the other half out of a man's attempt to act as his wife's efficiency expert.

* * *

If you think that there is no worse form of "hell-on-earth" than being tied to somebody you don't love, try being married to somebody who doesn't love you.

* * *

Every girl has two kinds of women friends—those who try to promote her love-affairs, and those who try to break them up. And, of the two, the first are by far the more dangerous.

* * *

A bride is constantly thinking of bright and snappy things to say to her husband, but after a few years she gets wise and concentrates on thinking of all the things not to say to him.

* * *

There's always a new way of doing things. And instead of marrying to protect himself against blonds, a bright young millionaire has surrounded himself with blonds to protect him against marriage.

* * *

Never keep tabs on a man. If he deserves it, he isn't worth the effort; and if he doesn't, he'll promptly do something to deserve it.

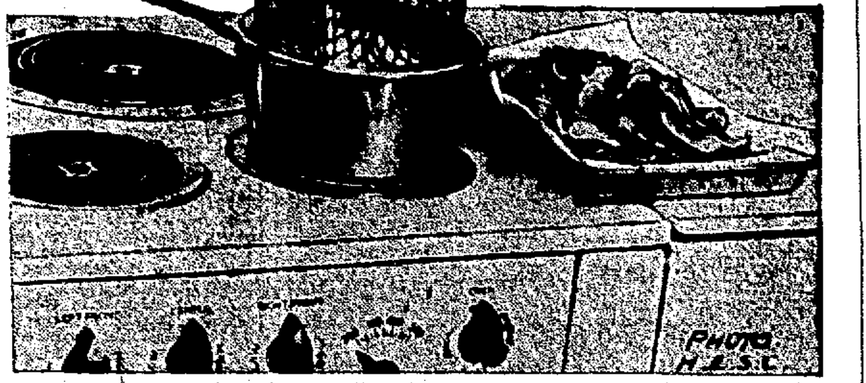
POTATO CHIPS CRISP AND FRESH



Potatoes are in season the entire year. Vary the menu by serving French fries or potato chips. Follow the directions given below.

Economy must so often be the watchword of home makers but even so they may serve the best and daintiest of foods. There seems to be an extra goodness added when dishes are home made and this is particularly true of potato chips.

To fry potato chips select medium sized potatoes. It is not necessary to peel them. Wash well with a stiff brush, then slice as thin as possible. This may be done either with a very sharp paring knife or with a regular potato slicer. As you pare them, put into a large bowl of cold water. When all the potatoes have been sliced, wash them well; change the water a number of times. It is better, however, to put them under the faucet and run water over them continuously. It is the excess starch in the potatoes that makes them stick together when frying and unless this starch is washed off, your potatoes will not be crisp.

Drain Thoroughly

When you are ready to fry the potatoes, drain them thoroughly and dry in a soft towel. Dry well to avoid the sputtering and possible boiling over of the fat.

Fill the deep fat kettle two thirds full of a good cooking fat that will heat to a high heating point without smoking. If you use a deep fat thermometer, the temperature should register 395 degrees. If you are testing the fat with a cube of bread, the bread should brown in 20 seconds or while you count slowly one to twenty.

Do not attempt to cook too many potatoes at one time. Put a few into the frying basket, not more than one quarter full. Lower the basket gradually into the hot fat. If the fat begins to boil up, raise the basket until the bubbling ceases. This boiling is caused by the heat turning the moisture in the potatoes into steam and as it escapes it bubbles up through the fat.

The cold, wet potatoes will reduce the temperature of the fat and more heat must be added. Let the potatoes fry until they are the desired shade of brown. Drain on absorbent paper. Do not salt until you are ready to serve as the salt causes the potatoes to become limp.

French Fried Potatoes

Cut pared potatoes lengthwise into strips about one half inch wide. Soak them in cold water. Drain thoroughly and dry as much as possible. Place them, a few at a time, in a wire basket and lower them slowly into deep fat that has been heated to 395 degrees F. or that will brown a cube of bread in 20 seconds (count 20 slowly). Fry until a golden brown and drain on absorbent paper.

Shoe-String Potatoes

Pare potatoes, let stand in cold water a few minutes. Cut into narrow strips with a vegetable slicer. Fry in deep fat heated to 395 degrees F. or hot enough to brown a cube of bread while 20 is slowly counted. Drain on unglazed paper.

Mock Roast Potatoes

Select small potatoes. Pare and drop them into hot fat heated to 365-275 degrees F. or hot enough to brown a cube of bread while slowly counting 60. Fry until golden brown. Drain on unglazed paper.

If only larger potatoes are available or if the frying time is short, parboil the potatoes first in boiling salted water.

SYNOPSIS: There is a mystery surrounding Hope, the wife Rupert Joris suddenly took when Elinor Fleming jilted him. Dirk, Rupert's younger brother, is not only trying to solve the mystery; he is rather fond of Hope herself. But all Dirk's spies have been able to learn is that Hope is much interested in a blond cowboy who has been working in the rodeo at Madison Square Garden. Dirk is hurrying home to dress for Elinor Fleming's wedding—she is marrying the man she jilted Rupert to take.

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE

Ride To the North

DIRK had got home early, and dressed with care—black cutaway, white spats, white gloves and gardenia. Could Rupert really mean to go to Elinor's wedding? If so, then Hope and Ruppert would go together, and he himself might hurry on alone.

He looked in Rupert's room, little surprised to find that he had gone out again. He knocked on Hope's door and she opened it, still in neglige.

"Don't wait for Rupert," he said. "Get a dress on, and come with me."

She said she was not going.

"But you've got to!" Dirk answered. "One of you must."

At Adelaide's suggestions, he had bought two wedding presents that day—a silver dish and a set of salad forks—one from himself, one from Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Joris. He felt, however, inadequate to represent the entire family in the matter of attendance.

He shot out his wrist, looked at his watch.

"There's time if you hurry. It will be the dickens to explain if you both stay away. Please, Hope. You may ask something of me some day."

He doubted this, but she turned from the door, and he knew that she would go.

Ten minutes later she came out, dressed. Timothy told them as they left that Mister Rupert had driven up to the camp.

"For a few days' hunting, sir. The grouse should be good now."

Dirk explained to Hope that the Joris camp was at Big Moose.

"Near Lake Placid. He goes every fall. He'll be back by Monday."

At the church he seated Hope with Adelaide Joris, and then he stood beside Isabel while the old bishop united Elinor to Gage Seymour. The world was hushed and gray as they left the church and later, when bride and groom departed for their train, snowflakes were flying with the rice.

Late Tuesday night Connolly telephoned Dirk inquiring how he might get in touch with Rupert. Dirk, who had expected Rupert home on Monday directed him to phone the camp. Yes, said Connolly, he knew where Rupert was supposed to be; he had met him Thursday in the act of leaving for Big Moose. But he had been calling the camp most of the day without receiving an answer.

Dirk replied that he would drive up to Big Moose in the morning and discover what was wrong.

He was distinctly uneasy. The snowflakes at Elinor's wedding had been the edges of a storm that had blanketed the Lake Placid country in white, calling out skis and toboggans and jolly rotogravures in the Sunday press. He and Hope had looked at the pictures together, had longed to round glorious Shady Curve on the Olympic bob-sled run.

Rupert may have been hunting when the storm came, hunting without a guide. Or he might be drinking alone in the cabin, cut off from food-supplies and likely enough without a properly tended fire.

Dirk mentioned none of these apprehensions to Hope. When he announced to her that he would be running up to Big Moose, she answered,

"May I go along?"

"If you can get up at five," he said. "And if you can stand hardship. It's pretty cold up there."

He had no objection to her going, and he had no particular fear about leaving her behind. Her were innocent enough. She loved secrets, he had begun to believe, the blond cowboy—any fool could see that. She had gone with him, no doubt, from rodeo to circus, in the company of this [illegible], who was their mutual friend, or the relative of one of them.

She had been tired of [illegible] and glad to escape from [illegible] she had not escaped [illegible] interest in the cowboy or [illegible] anxiety regarding him, [illegible] did not wish Rupert to [illegible] her connection with [illegible] with the boy.

"She think [illegible] thought [illegible] order Martin to relax his vigil.

"Through November," he told himself.

Dirk saw that Hope was bundled in her new raccoon coat next morning, tucked the robes well about her. The day was dawning crisp and clear, with promise of an April-blue sky. Traces of the storm increased as they drove north, and that afternoon when they reached Big Moose they found a world buried in snow.

Dirk left the car at the railway station, and telephoned to Sandy, a native guide, to meet them with his sleigh. Sandy's sleigh took them to the Joris camp, a log-cabin of three rooms, a boat-house and garage, all roofed and piled with drifts. The lake was frozen, the color of pewter, and gray skies brooded over all, heavy with more snow.

There was no trace of Rupert. The bunks had not been slept in, and the ashes on the hearth, the empty bottles about the kitchen, might have been relics of former visits. Sandy told them at once that he had not seen him.

"Looks like he would have let me know, seeing I always look after you folks."

Dirk and Sandy organized a posse that afternoon, and they searched for Rupert through all the frozen woods. Hope went too, though Dirk urged her to remain at the cabin with Sandy's big birch-fire.

Toward evening Sandy asked that they both return to the camp. "You're tuckered out, driving all day. We can find him without you." And the guides went on searching with torches and lanterns, while Dirk took hope back to the cabin and the fire.

It was snowing again now, blowing in little whispers against the pane. Now and then a windy breath came down the black maw of the chimney, scattering gray feathers of birch-ash out into the room, and driving the flame of the candle sideways. They had forgotten to buy kerosene, and had had to empty the lamps into the stove to cook their steak. Somewhere Dirk had dug up the candle.

They washed the dishes, too, in front of the fire, for it was bitter cold in the kitchen, now that the kerosene was all gone. It was bitter cold in the bedroom too, and even here in the big living-room, except close to the fire, while the little bathroom was like an ice-box.

But Hope was not complaining. Together they sat in the wide-armed hickory chairs, watching the fire, and waiting.

Dirk said,

"I wish you'd lie down, and rest."

She shook her head. Her eyes looked hard and brooding. He had suspected for some time that she had begun to care for Rupert, not as she cared for that other man, perhaps, but as a friend, a benefactor whom she desired to please. He tried to reassure her. Rupert might have gone elsewhere, he said.

"Perhaps," she answered, "Wherever he is, I blame myself. I might have stopped him .... for a while, anyhow. And then he might have forgotten."

She semed to be talking to the fire, or thinking aloud.

Dirk said quietly, not to intrude himself, merely to steer her thoughts into the light.

"How could you have stopped him?"

"By holding him.... that last day. By loving him back. Only it wasn't love. He was thinking of her... of Elinor. It was because she was getting married. It wasn't because he wanted me. It was almost like revenge. Like avenging himself on her. I couldn't bear.... but now...."

She paused. Dirk in his astonishment was silent. It was perhaps the wisest answer, for she spoke again.

"He loved her. He still loves her. I knew it the night of her dinner, when I saw them together."

So that was why she had been so quiet that night. She looked at him now, her brooding eyes full of the firelight. "Before that," she said, "I wanted him to love me."

Tomorrow, Dirk sends Hope home—and is called there himself.

Indians Yield to Yankees; Reds Nose Out Brooklyn

TIGERS OVERCOME WASHINGTON; GIANTS TRIM PITTSBURGH

Large Sunday Crowds Greet Major League Teams as 1935 Champs Lag.

By The Associated Press

In spite of the fact that the 1935 pennant winners are having trouble remaining in the first division—or perhaps for that very reason—major league baseball has suddenly become a paying proposition.

At least four banner crowds turned out yesterday to see teams that are contending for top places and one clash between a pair that are far down in the standing but usually provide plenty of entertainment.

A crowd of 28,303 cash customers piled into the Polo Grounds to see the New York Giants, playing their first Sunday home game of the season, continue their pursuit of the St. Louis Cardinals by trimming Pittsburgh 8 to 6. The Yankees and Indians, first and third respectively in the American league, drew more than 27,000 into Cleveland's League park to see the home team take an 8 to 4 drubbing while Boston's popular Red Sox drew some 23,000 fans to watch them edge out Chicago's White Sox, 8 to 7.

The erratic Dodgers and Reds attracted some 17,000 Brooklyn customers for an odd contest which the Reds won 3 to 2 although they got only four hits against Brooklyn's 12. A home run by Lee Handley and a single by the same rookie, preceded by a walk and followed by Kiki Cuyler's blow, turned the trick for Cincinnati.

The Cardinals maintained their slim half-game margin over the Giants by walloping the Phillies 10 to 3; the Tigers regained an interest in the first division by overcoming Washington 8 to 7, and the Browns broke their latest losing streak by trimming the Athletics 8 to 5 in the day's other games.

The Cubs and Bees, rivals for fourth place in the National league, were rained out.

The Giants got off to a fast start against Ralph Birkofer, lost their lead in the fourth and finally won out when they belted Guy Bush for three runs in the fifth.

Johnny Allen, the former New York flinger, again failed to subdue the Yankees. They pounded him to cover in the sixth. Lefty Gomez also failed to finish but his hit drove in the winning run.

After dropping a 6-1 lead, the Red Sox won out over Chicago when Bill Werber socked a homer in the eighth and Rick Ferrell repeated in the ninth. The Tigers also won in the final inning, scoring twice on a double, two passes by Ed Linke and a couple of flies.

Four passes by Ross, Philadelphia rookie, and Jim Bottomley's triple started the Browns toward their second victory in 19 games and Julius Solters finished the job when his seventh-inning homer broke a 5-5 tie.

With Dizzy Dean on the hill hurling six-hit ball, four of the blows coming in one inning, the Cards had few worries.

RED BIRDS, COLONELS DIVIDE PAIR; SAINTS LOSE TO MILLERS

Pfleger Continues Hitting Spree by Knocking Out Ninth Homer of Year.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, May 18 — Minneapolis held an edge today in this year's competition with an American Association rival of long standing, St. Paul.

The champion Millers whipped the league-leading Saints yesterday, 5-4, to take the series, two games to one. Roy Pfleger, subbing for Andy Cohen at second base for the Millers, continued his sensational hitting by getting his ninth homer of the year to provide the winning margin. Cleanup hitters on both clubs had perfect days at the plate, Bob Boken of the Saints getting "four for four" and Spencer Harris getting three hits in three trips for Minneapolis. Each had one home run.

Louisville divided a double-header with Columbus, the Red Birds winning the opener 16 to 10 and the Colonels the nightcap 6-2. Bob Shaffer of the Colonels pitched four-hit ball in the second tilt, retiring Columbus in order after allowing the fourth hit with one out in the fifth.

In the opener Columbus got 21 hits for 42 bases. Jack Winsett hit two home runs, as did Brack of the Colonels. Manager Burleigh Grimes of Louisville was chased from the game for the fourth time this season when he protested a decision in the opener. Eddie Morgan of Columbus also was banished in the first game.

Kansas City beat Milwaukee 12 to 2 before 11,683 paid fans. Madjeski led the Blues' attack with two triples, a double and a single, batting in six runs. Whitlow Wyatt, sent to Kansas City three days ago by the Chicago White Sox, allowed only three hits until the eighth. A single and a fluke triple then ruined his hopes for a shutout.

Toledo won the opening game of a double bill with Indianapolis, 5-4 in 11 innings and then lost the second, 9-5. Alta Cohen, who replaced Lou Garland for the Hens in the seventh, won his own game in the eleventh by singling with two men on base.

WARNING TO MOTORISTS

FIGURES don't lie! Every year thousands of motorists are killed or injured when blow-outs throw cars out of control. To trust to luck when it comes to tires is to invite a serious and costly accident—or worse!

Motorists who ignore the danger of blow-outs are making a big mistake. Because at today's high speeds terrific heat is generated inside the tire. Rubber and fabric begin to separate. A tiny blister forms. Bigger and BIGGER grows this invisible blister. Then it's just a matter of time when, BANG! A blow-out!

To protect you against such danger, every new Goodrich Silvertown is built with the Life-Saver Golden Ply, a layer of special rubber and full floating cords, scientifically treated to resist internal tire heat. By resisting this heat the Golden Ply keeps rubber and fabric from separating—it keeps blisters from forming. And when you prevent the blister you prevent the high-speed blow-out.

Right now is the time to fix your car for safe summer driving by putting on a set of Goodrich Safety Silvertowns. They cost no more than other standard tires. Come in today.

STOCKS SPURT, THEN DECLINE

Upturn Following Guffey Act's Death Succeeded by Sharp Slump.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 18—Stocks leaped ahead 1 to around 4 points in today's market, following the supreme court's finding of the Guffey act unconstitutional, but failed to hold.

The sharp forward thrust lasted only a brief period during which the ticker tape was some 4 minutes behind floor transactions. Then prices began to retrace their upturn. The close was irregular. Transfers were around 900,000 shares.

Bonds emulated stocks and commodities were mixed. Foreign gold currencies were lower in terms of the dollar.

Shares emerging steady to a point or more higher included Dome, McIntyre, Porcupine, Columbia Gas, Consolidated Edison, Electric Power & Light, Sears Roebuck, New York Central, Santa Fe, Johns-Manville, Columbian Carbon and American Can.

Unchanged to down a point or so were U. S. Industrial Alcohol, American Telephone, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Allied Chemical, du Pont, Distillers Corp.-Seagrams and American Crystal Sugar.

Du Pont declared a 70-cent extra dividend, but the stock was listless. The last previous cash extra was 35 cents, voted in September.

The magazine "Steel" provided some market cheer with its prediction that a high rate of steel production probably will be maintained throughout the summer.

The French franc, at the beginning of foreign exchange transactions, was off .00¼ of a cent at 6.50 cents, and sterling was ⅜ of a cent firmer at $4.96⅞.

JUDGE CHANGES DITCH LEVIES

Changes Commissioners' Schedule of Assessments for Grave Creek Project.

Common Pleas Judge Hector S. Young has handed down a decision in the matter of the improvement of Grave Creek ditch in Marion township, reversing the schedule of assessments set up by county commissioners when they granted the improvement recently on the petition of William C. Ulsh of the Likens Chapel road.

The judge's decision comes after an all-day hearing in common pleas court April 29 on the appeal of Mrs. Martha J. Hord of the Likens Chapel road. She appealed the decision of the commissioners on the grounds that the improvement is not conducive to public welfare and the costs exceed the benefits.

In his decision Judge Young says, "It will not be conducive to public health, convenience and welfare and to the benefit of the land-owners to be assessed for the construction of said improvement as found by the county commissioners of Marion county."

The improvement calls for cleaning out, deepening and enlarging the ditch.

The new schedule of assessments ordered by Judge Young follows: Likens Chapel church increased from $13.63 to $14.48; Sanford Seckel reduced from $114.61 to $84.84; William C. Ulsh increased from $183.44 to $205.02; Claridon township increased from $21.25 to $28.05; Martha J. Hord reduced from $380.90 to $280.11; L. L. and Emma McIntire reduced from $370.92 to $304.05; Scott Woolley reduced from $27.28 to $21.24; Marion county increased from $163.18 to $173.38, and Marion township increased from $27.25 to $28.05.

The court also ordered that in the event the ditch improvement costs less than the amounts assessed the difference shall be prorated back to the landowners in proportion to the amounts they have been assessed. Cost of the court action was assessed against the county.

Mrs. Hord was represented by the law firm of Guthery, Streitz & Guthery. Mr. Ulsh was represented by J. C. A. Arter and Prosecuting Attorney Paul D. Michel was counsel for the commissioners.
